CHAPTER ONE
EVOLUTION, NOT REVOLUTION
PAIN AND PLEASURE

Human motivation determines the direction any economy takes. This motivation can be manipulated into positive or negative directions. Leaders of every type understand the double-sided nature of motivation. In America, we call it the carrot- or-stick approach. In other words, people are led by giving them either rewards (pleasure) or punishment (pain).

Every type of political system throughout history has manipulated society in the name of the people and ended up being for the benefit of the few. The closest we've ever come to true freedom is in America. Had we started a clear-cut economic system with political power, the process of freedom would have been complete. Capitalism was assumed but not institutionalized leaving us vulnerable to so-called scientific communism.

The industrial revolution embraced capitalism as its code, and the human race prospered and progressed faster than at any other time in history. However, this progress was perverted by government regulation in concert with the monopolistic mentality of a few. This scenario, which could be termed Negative Capitalism, allowed a truly demonic system of misplaced compassion to take hold. Its inequities of Negative Capitalism were obvious and, so, communism took hold in several parts of the world.

In America, a slow revolution of socialism has produced a mixed society. Government, in collusion with Negative Capitalists, created the current system of solving problems through government intervention. Freedom is freedom from government, but the march of socialism can be charted in direct proportion with the slow and devious intrusion of government into the daily lives of every American.

Unfortunately, in a democracy, the people have the added insult of losing their freedom by failing to choose correctly on the ballot. Most of the time, they do not really have a choice. Instead, the leaders use the dubious "which" close. This is sales jargon: Which would you rather have on your new car--your initials printed in gold or in silver? The presumption is that you already want to buy the car. Similarly, the leaders take the more important decision out of your hands, knowing people fear big decision. The classic example is the income tax. Long ago, Americans voted for this tax as a small emergency measure to help in a war effort. After the excuse for expropriating everyone's income was voted into existence, the politicians and bureaucrats slowly but surely attached themselves to each individual as permanent parasites. Any social problem is an excuse to take more of the individual's income. This is the same mentality used by feudal lords, dictators, communists, kings and queens, and now, by trickery, with consent, by a democracy. The question is never, "Should we abolish the tax?" It is always a question about who should be taxed the most. The big decision has already been made to benefit the government and not the individual.

A very good way of judging the freedom factor in a country would be a "Pleasure/Pain" meter or graph. While it's true that every government uses the carrot or stick method, it's also true that the degree a government uses the stick, it shows it's negative direction. A government that chooses force as its method of operation shows that it has little faith in itself or its citizens. Any government that chooses to inflict pain on its citizens as a way to discipline and manipulate is creating a sadistic, bureaucratic, non-free society. The only pleasure, in this type of society, is for the leaders and bureaucrats using the standard ploy "for the good of the people," as a whip against its own citizens. In America in 1995 we are heading straight into this common ploy because of the drug problem. They should be legalized and not taxed. See other sections of this book for further explanation about the drug solution in America.

PRESSURE AND ASSISTANCE

Every social problem creates an economic pressure. Every economic problem requires a solution. Governments always try to solve these problems with assistance. Assistance is nothing more than an excuse for governments to expropriate assets, involuntarily, from someone who has earned them. Governments do not need to earn anything because they can use force. They need only find a social problem, or create one, to gain power.

The most extreme form of waste by government solutions is war. The formula is the same for all programs, with the exception of true expenditures for defense against other governments. The police, if used to protect life and property rather than to expedite political policy, also has a legitimate use by government. Beyond these two situations, a minimum government is the best government.

This is not a call to overthrow any government but, instead, a call for people to find solutions without government help. We must also be aware of the "straw man". The problems created by government for the sole purpose of demonstrating that government has the only solution. These situations must be exposed and stopped. Evolution and understanding can create this social order without the chaos caused by every other major social change.

Private, individual solutions must be found when true social problems are identified. Private solutions, combined with political power, will keep government off the backs of individuals. Profit is the fuel, and entrepreneurial ability can change a negative situation into a positive one. We must remain vigilant in this area. Any opportunity to achieve power that is missed by capitalism will be taken up by someone in the government.

Resistance to government assistance must be made in the name of social maturity. Citizens must grow up and stop taking the easy way out. Every time you receive something for nothing from the government, you have paid with the currency of freedom. Sometimes this loss of freedom is your own, but most often it is the freedom of others that has been sacrificed at the altar of government waste.

Counter-pressure must be placed on government regulators and bureaucrats, because they are the forces of oppression. These people must be given productive work in society instead of a license for petty power. The term "public servant," instead of "public dictator," must come back into our system.

Social pressure must trigger assistance from the minds of individual entrepreneurs. This technique of alternate solutions will be a major goal of The International Capitalist Party.

POLITICS AND PEACE

War requires an enemy. Someone in power has to convince others that they should hate somebody for some reason. These reasons are mostly irrational, but power manipulators have always been good at convincing others to hate by appealing to their dark side. The politics of hate has a long list of irrational reasons for war. Here is a partial list of these reasons:

Race

Religion

Customs

Differences in economic systems

Need for more land for existing citizens

Combinations of the above that create new political systems, such as Nazism.

Each of these situations is a legitimate political problem. You cannot convert a bigot into a rational adult without solving the underlying problem of fear or stupidity. Religious prejudice is often promoted with the promise of a preferred afterlife for the followers. This type of manipulative behavior by organized religion may have had a legitimate reason for existence in the past, because it motivated the masses to protect themselves against barbarians and invaders. Today, with mass personal communication and education, there is no need for an enemy.

Because of mass communications, different customs have become a desirable commodity rather than an excuse for aggression. Unusual customs have become a tourist attraction instead of something to fear or scorn. Tourism, a product of capitalism, takes fear of the unknown and turns it into a thriving business.

Differences in economic systems seem to be behind most wars today. This is ludicrous. Every economic system has a legitimate use. If the government allows freedom of choice, the differences will become very clear. There are presently five general economic systems:

Positive capitalism

Negative capitalism

Mixed economy

Forced communism/socialism

Free communism/socialism

Most societies are a composite of these five categories. The difference lies in which system dominates. Three of the five economies can politically coexist and create peace in the world. They are positive capitalism, mixed economy, and free communism/socialism. The other two are controlled by government coercion and force; they will perpetuate a negative environment and open the door for an aggressive war posture. While it is true that these three systems can coexist, it is also true that positive capitalism is the best of these three methods. This political party is an attempt to perfect positive capitalism.

CHAPTER TWO
FREEDOM IS FREEDOM FROM GOVERNMENT

CHILDREN/NOMINALS/ADULTS
MY GOAL/THEIR GOAL
CAPITALISM VS. CONTROLISM
CHILDREN/NOMINALS/ADULTS

Attitudes toward society are not static. They are the essence of political evolution. The key to successful transformation into positive capitalism is the understanding and acceptance of adult economic responsibilities. Unfortunately, most citizens are really children of the state and are treated so by the leaders and bureaucrats. When children grow up, the mark of their maturity is independence from their parents. A lot of people have just exchanged this parental dependence for government dependence. Governments encourage dependence because it vests power in their institutions.

The perpetual child mentality is a product of power manipulation. The power entity uses misplaced compassion as a sales tool to extort money and control from the citizens. An example of misplaced compassion would be using a poor, crippled, blind woman with twelve kids as a reason to collect billions of dollars for transfer payments by the government. Obviously, such individuals are true hardship cases and deserve compassion.

The trick here is that governments then try to find excuses to place as many on the government dependency list as possible. The weak and the lazy find this program very enticing. The program has a basis for existence in society, but government solutions have never been the answer. Politicians are merely buying votes with taxpayers' money. The politicians are supported by the bureaucrats, who have a vested interest in their jobs.

Everyone involved rationalizes this situation by calling it fair. But fairness doesn't include making slaves of the working class for the benefit of another class of people, the weak and lazy. Good people normally want to help unfortunate or unlucky people in need. This noble urge is the idea most exploited by governments down through the ages. The song is the same: You will sacrifice for the good of the masses or else, "or else" being physical force or eternal damnation. The true benefactors are those who advocate this misplaced compassion.

This system of expropriation and worker slavery has three parts to it, no matter what it is called politically or economically. Two parts are made up of immature political attitudes. The third part, the victim consist mostly of nominals, Gentle criticism of this system is all that will be tolerated by Negative capitalists went along with this program because it kept the poor in their place and added a new burden on the middle class. This is a classic example of a coalition of socialists, statist, and negative capitalists getting together to extort power from the people. The mixed economy gives confusing signals to the casual political onlooker, but “confuse and conquer” is the method used by this coalition. It appears to be all things to all people. The net result is loss of power by the people and increased power by government and negative capitalists. The adult political mentality used positive capitalism to solve problems. Positive capitalists do not use government force and coercion.

MY GOAL/THEIR GOAL

Every other system devised for the good of the people has required that, first and foremost, the government must control everyone. These arguments have always been like a parent talking to a wayward child. The leaders always assume that people would perish without their divine guidance. The opposite is the truth. People either learn to deal with one another fairly, or they perish naturally. Governments only distort the natural flow. There is no historical example of a powerful, benevolent government.

Even Marx and Engels, with their supposedly scientific economic system, gave as their final goal the elimination of government. This was to come about after the building of a socialist state. The reason their system will not work is because of the negativity built into it. The same parental attitude prevails in communism that has prevailed in every other social system. They all use force and coercion to implement their system.

The people in power will always feel most threatened by the best minds in their controlled society. The most mature and independent of minds will always resent the lack of freedom caused by governments.

Leaders must be extremely intelligent and resourceful to survive in any society. The main problems they have are the belief in their own supremacy and the fear that someone else can replace them. This immature intelligence will succeed for leaders until the nominal attitude is made aware of itself. Individuals' confidence in their own ability to choose a positive destiny will be the key to freedom from government. Communications and technology will make evolution possible. The present leaders will find they had nothing to fear and everything to gain. As soon as they realize that true power does not require any victims, their happiness will be as great as their leadership.

Leaders have always required a victim to gain power. Their goals have always been achieved by force or misplaced compassion. Their goals destroy freedom, no matter what their stated or intended goals were in the beginning. Their very power will destroy some freedom in any system, no matter what its professed intentions are. Every government crushes freedom proportionate to its own power. Mature positive capitalism is the only natural way to attain freedom. Any collusion with government is a deviation from this principle, with very few exceptions. The police and fire departments have the best chance of not abusing the power of government. The military will be useful until the evolutionary process is complete. The defense of freedom is the only noble reason for a military to exist; military rule is ridiculous.

In a truly free country, even the police and fire departments can become a private venture.

CAPITALISM VS. CONTROLLISM

Positive capitalism is the only political system that completely supports personal freedom for the individual. Every other system wants to control individuals and the assets created by individuals. Capitalism assumes democracy as a method for choosing leaders, but democracy can rob and enslave some individuals for the benefit of the undeserving. Redistribution of wealth has been going on since time began. If wealth is redistributed naturally, evolution is served. If, however, any form of force or control is interjected into this process, the natural flow of evolution is slowed down. In severe cases, society has actually managed to go backward. The Dark Ages and the two world wars would be examples of this backward evolutionary process. In every case, some form of controllism was the political reality. The following list includes previous types of controllism that have already occurred and continue to abuse citizens:

Monarchy Dictatorship Religious Control Communism Socialism Democracy with a mixed economy

Each of these systems has the same motives: Control the individual and control his assets and abilities. Each system has the potential to be as bad as the other. The subjugation of the citizen to the state seems to determine the degree of damage done to the natural evolutionary process. Freedom is freedom from government.

The current vogue in backward evolution, "for the good of the people," is either communism or socialism. A mixed economy, a more subtle form of controllism, is just as infested with government intervention. These systems can take even a strong economy, such as England's, and slow it down to a third-rate economy. The only time they can temporarily look good is when a country already has a destroyed or backward economy. The only reason they look good for a short while is because they use so much force to motivate citizens into a slave economy.

Backward economies could be brought into the natural evolutionary process if they would be allowed to practice positive capitalism. Peace and prosperity would prevail if we could eliminate the negative leaders and their negative social systems. The removal of the negative system, rather than the removal of the negative leader, is often more important but, often, both must be done at the same time.

CHAPTER THREE
HOW TO AVOID CREATING
“JUST ANOTHER BUREAUCRACY”
THE DISSOLVING BUSINESS
LESS IS MORE
THE DISSOLVING BUSINESS

There are three types of dissolving businesses. The first is the type of business already in existence to solve a common problem. The best example would be the common problem of transportation. Over the ages, many types of transportation have given way to better forms. For instance, the horse and buggy business dissolved to make way for the automobile business. The International Capitalist Party should promote this type of transition, or progress, within every industry. Opposition to progress is always a volatile political issue that requires a clear direction.

The second type of dissolving business is a social problem that is currently being dealt with by government or by pseudo governmental agencies, such as public utilities and public waste-disposal units. Most of the problems that government addresses are sincere needs that could become capitalistic opportunities for the creative entrepreneur. The International Capitalist Party will help dissolve government involvement in any type of business. Our political challenge will be to find transitional solutions to problems presented by politicians and bureaucrats, with the ultimate goal of having private enterprise take over our solutions. We will be a sort of research and development department for the private sector. Once we can clearly solve a social problem and show a reasonable profit, the enterprise will be sold to private industry.

The third type of dissolving business is any business started by The International Capitalist Party during its evolution. We will sponsor many programs to encourage new businesses. (The various methods used will be discussed thoroughly in other chapters.) Built into the membership drive will be various businesses. A variable net income trust deed, secured by real estate, will provide the capital basis for the entire political party. This will be the last business to be dismantled once the goals of the party have been achieved.

There will also be many businesses, mostly high-tech businesses, involved in the Star-Life project. Once the prototypes have been tested, the businesses should be dissolved by The International Capitalist Party and replaced by private operations. The party will attempt to retain a passive financial interest in these technologies to create an income for other projects.

The ultimate goal is to leave business entirely to the private sector after governments have done the same. We do not want to compete with the private sector, but we do want to be a conduit from government solutions to private solutions.

The party's money-making courses and classroom programs will also include the start-up of new businesses by members. Control by The International Capitalist Party will dissolve, but the party will retain a non liability position in many instances. All monetary interests in these ventures will be dissolved when the goals of the party have been reached.

Some of the solution presented in Chapter 7 will also create new businesses. Once again, party control will dissolve first; then, when the party has met its goals, the businesses will dissolve completely.

LESS IS MORE

The illusion of wealth is a trap that many people get themselves into. Some do it by putting up a front that costs them peace of mind. They lose their personal serenity because they are over their head in debt. They are working too hard just to maintain an image. Others have the wealth but have been caught in the compulsive behavior of accumulating more without benefiting themselves proportionately.

Some of the old clichés, like “remember to smell the roses,” “all work and no play make Jack a dull boy,” and so on, can be invoked here. This philosophy has a sound American basis in Henry D. Thoreau's Walden Pond. Even though his answer is transcendental meditation, his point that sometimes “less is more” is well taken.

In this book, we are trying for maximum political and social freedom. With this freedom comes the pitfall of overindulgence. Success itself can cause ultimate personal failure without a new set of goals. The perfection of something that, in its imperfect state, is taken for granted can become a goal for a person searching for further fulfillment in life.

We are searching for ways to implement a system with a minimum of bureaucracy. The types of individuals mentioned above have used capitalism and have already succeeded to some point. We can use their expertise and perhaps give them additional motivation and success. They will be the type that can use and maximize both our maxi-level marketing system and our computer network. They will be aware of the “electronic cottage” and future ramifications. The ability to communicate and integrate information and ideas will finally give individuals true unlimited personal freedom.

Individual members who are properly motivated and equipped will be our private bureaucracy. A commission structure to create income for our members will also assure that people are paid according to their ability and effort. Non performing middlemen will be left out and, once again, less is more.

Capitalism is in an imperfect state because it has never been given political power. The reason for this is capitalism's philosophy of reducing government of any type rather than trying to grasp power and control. This situation leaves capitalism with all the work and none of the credit. Every other political system cannibalizes the efforts of individual capitalists. When it comes to allowing government growth, you lose the support of anyone trying for political power by believing “less is more.” In America, these are the individuals who want political power: Politicians Bureaucrats Union leaders Lawyers Pseudo governmental agency members (public utilities and the like) Recipients of transfer payments (purchased votes)

CHAPTER FOUR
PLANTING SEEDS
MEMBERSHIP
DEVELOP CLASSROOM PROGRAMS
POLITICAL NETWORKING
MEMBERSHIP

There are four types of membership offered:

1. Membership including individual unit trusts. Anyone that wants to be a member but wants to control the assets placed in trust with The Capitalist Party can use this method.

What this method refers to is a trust account whereby the new member and The Capitalist Party form a limited partnership with The Capitalist Party being a limited partner and the new member placing assets into a numbered trust account. The new member is the general partner on terms that are acceptable to the general partner. The assets must benefit The Party in some way and must not be assets that would be considered negative capitalism such as a business manufacturing something harmful to others.

The main reason that this type of membership will appeal to the advanced capitalistic type is the freedom to choose a method of promoting capitalism. These individuals have the potential of advancing capitalism much further than I can, even with the help of the passive members. Individual unit trusts can include any of the following: A. Cash B. Trust deeds or mortgages C. Personal property security devices D. Accounts receivable E. Stocks and bonds F. Income producing real estate G. Free and clear land H. Privately owned businesses I. Free and clear personal property or stock in trade J. Annuities K. Other types of trust accounts L. Leasehold estates M. Any other asset approved by The Capitalist Party

Each individual unit trust will include a contract between The Capitalist Party and the new member. We will be very open minded as to the structure of the contract but limited liability will be a major factor in accepting said contract. These assets can be placed into the trust and later withdrawn at the general partners request. Maximum flexibility should be given the general partner but The Capitalist Party should not be placed in any jeopardy.

The profit from these unit trusts can be directed to any of the current projects of The Capitalist Party or to any project approved by The Party.

Individual members imagination will determine the type of asset placed in the trust and the method that the asset benefits The Capitalist Party.

Individual unit trusts can be used as a full fledged branch office if they incorporate all of the activities of The Party. This will give someone other than myself the opportunity and responsibility for the growth of The Party in a given area.

Individual unit trust activities can either be entirely separate from the other members or be incorporated with them. This will depend upon the size and type of investment the individual unit trust member has to contribute. It will also depend upon the goals and intentions of the member.

While I'll be the owner of The Capitalist Party to emphasize the importance of private ownership of an idea, the actual control and power should come from the individual unit trust members.

The goal here is to recruit the best and most successful capitalist in the world. We have to be careful to recruit positive capitalists or persons willing to change into positive capitalist. In other words we could recruit a cigarette magnate provided they succumb to new scientific proof that their product has become negative capitalism. We would work with them on a solution that provides a new opportunity for everyone within the industry and convert their activities into positive capitalism. This would be a great opportunity to avoid government intervention and total destruction of a viable organization. Only the activities of the organization must be changed not the individuals. This would be a real challenge for the problem solving arm of The Capitalist Party.

I will personally attempt to recruit these members. This recruiting effort will even be extended to organized crime, the Mafia, Cosa Nostra, etc. These organizations abuse capitalism the most. They call it "Business" while committing some of the most negative human activities. We will need their cooperation or extinction to facilitate the evolution of positive capitalism. By giving them alternate methods of earning money and maintaining their organization, we may be able to neutralize their negative effect on society. By taking communism out of society, many of the methods organized crime uses will correspond to positive capitalism. This concept will be the most difficult transition The Party will have to make in countries that already profess to be capitalistic. The only other choice is a complete commitment to maximum force. Negative capitalism must evolve into positive capitalism or be destroyed like a cancer. Healthy brain cells or surgical removal from society are the only choices.

Most people would agree that this is a naive goal but so was traveling to the moon just a few years ago.

2. Membership including a variable net income trust deed or mortgage.

This type of membership will constitute the bulk of the members. There is a basic contradiction in giving money to an organization that doesn't advocate excessive altruism. To be consistent with the principles of capitalism that insist on a voluntary contract with mutual benefits for both parties, we have devised this type of membership.

Most individuals will want a passive way of participating in the growth of The Capitalist Party. The method we've chosen is the safest and the most fair way of raising money for The Party and still giving a reasonable return to the member.

3. This type of membership is in the form of a grant. These grants can be given to support any or all of The Partys' projects. Grants can be converted to other forms of membership if the grantor should decide to change direction later. This conversion will have to be done in an orderly manner so as not to disrupt plans and programs already taking place.

4. This type of membership will be a beginning membership. Said members will receive a book and a membership card that will be good for many future special entitlements and events. The new member can purchase this for the cost of the book and the card plus a ten percent commission to the person that introduced them to The Party. As a beginning member you are eligible for our maxi-level marketing and membership drive. Additional monies can be added later to change your status into one of the other types of membership. Full credit will be given for your initial membership fee.

Examples of ways to use assets from an individual unit trust that would benefit both the capitalist party and the member, follow:

A. $100,000 as a total unit trust.

- (1) 10% placed in variable net income trust deeds.
- (2) 50% used as start-up money for a problem solving business that creates income and jobs.
- (3) 20% used for advertising and promotion of new members.
- (4) 20% used for investment in existing companies that are already members and practice positive capitalism.

B. Privately owned business.

- (1) Pledge a portion of the income from the business to either a variable net income trust deed or invest in other companies that are already members.
- (2) Put some capitalist party promotional material in with your company's' advertising.
- (3) Provide jobs for members.
- (4) Use offices in the evening for membership meetings.
- (5) Help other members start new businesses.

C. Free and clear land.

- (1) Develop into income producing property and sell to the members using the variable net income trust deed method of financing and purchasing of the finished project.
- (2) Plan a Humanarium development using the land as a site.
- (3) Trade into a variable net income trust deed position.

Most members will have more than one type of asset. This will call for a comprehensive plan of action. Each situation will depend on the commitment that the member has in promoting positive capitalism.

International business concerns with assets in various countries will be more involved in setting goals. These international members will be the most important link in promoting world capitalism. International law and politics must be respected and changed peacefully within the world community. The experience of international capitalists will be invaluable in this process.

There is already in existence in international group of capitalist, The Trilateral Commission; see "Trilaterals Over Washington" by Anthony C. Sutton and Patrick M. Wood published by The August Group. This organization has incredible power and potential. A commitment to positive capitalism from this group would advance the evolutionary process in extraordinary ways. The objectives of this group can easily be directed into a major positive force for freedom. Their own self interests should propel them into this direction. The Capitalist Party should give them a clear political direction and public forum. As a group of extremely wealthy individuals meeting behind closed doors they give an ominous image at the present time. By coming out clearly and openly, they should be able to attain many of their groups goals. I won't presume to direct the methods that this group could use to help. They should direct us as to how they would propose to promote positive capitalism.

DEVELOP CLASSROOM PROGRAM

This is another part of the book that will evolve into several volumes over time. The main thing that should be accomplished here is a plan that will get the first class operating. there are so many ways to approach this subject due to the fact that it is partially being done already. The approach that should be taken for the initial training will be tied into a membership drive. This way the two goals can be accomplished at the same time.

There eventually will be three methods developed to get positive capitalism into society. The first will go along with the membership drive. When this is far enough along, capital will have been raised for the beginnings of an actual institution dedicated to the principles of positive capitalism. The third method will be to organize lectures and classes in established institutions. The third method already exists in some classrooms today. Capitalism is not a new idea by any means but a much abused idea through the ages. By concentrating on capitalism's fundamentals and giving positive capitalism political power for the first time, perhaps we can give capitalism the impetus to be as important as it should be.

This book will act as the text and guide to begin with. Included will be a list of other books for a student to get an even better understanding of capitalist principles. Some of these books will have more of a historical background. Included in some of these books will be a lot of material that isn't relevant today but gives an insight into past capitalist evolution in literature. These books were much tougher to write than mine because of the prevailing lack of knowledge about the subject in the past. The opposition to intellectual capitalism has always been extremely intense.

The Capitalist Party. Any time that the party retains an interest in one of these ventures, it will be in a limited partnership capacity or as a passive share holder. Control must be in the hands of the members that create the company. These business concerns must not be owned and operated by The Capitalist Party. If the reverse were true, the future owners of The Capitalist Party would be tempted to abuse the power of the party. This principle will be a form of checks and balances done in a private business forum. We don't want to create another mixed business/political system. Clear cut lines must be drawn and maintained from the beginning.

The creating of new businesses will be part of the "on the job" learning process and used to solve problems. The essence of a business is problem solving. A human need is a problem and a business is the solution.

A simple example follows:

Need - Hunger

Problem - Starvation

Business Solutions - Restaurant/Grocery Store/Farmers etc.

In "The Book of Solutions" (Chapter Seven) almost all of the problems will be solved with some portion of the above formula. Problem solving will become a key component in our classroom programs. Finding the needs and current problems of a society and then transferring these problems into a trade off of mutual advantage to all parties that shows a profit will be the trick to problem solving by The Capitalist Party.

Don't underestimate the need for profit. Profit is the fuel that runs the creative imagination. Profit is very much like silent applause if earned using positive capitalism. Our classroom programs will emphasize these factors rather than harping on political propaganda. Fluid and flexible problem solving by individual entrepreneurs, not grandiose government plans, will be our credo. People solving other peoples problems through a mutual exchange of goods, services or ideas for the benefit of each party will be the method.

Each participant will have to pick a pet project. This project is a problem that needs to be solved and one the member is the most interested in seeing solved. From this point of view, the member will have the greatest chance for personal satisfaction. This in turn will create a greater effort in problem solving by the member. This greater effort should maximize the chances for success and profits.

My personal pet project will be trying to create employment in the section of any country that is unduly suppressed because of race or religion or government interference. A lot of this movement will be part of that solution. I don't plan on trying to solve this problem through any altruistic method but rather with positive capitalism.

The first thing we learn is that the oppressed minorities must learn to completely ignore the oppressor. The oppressor will never pay attention to pleas from the oppressed. These pleas will only prove that the oppressed are weak. Hard work, positive capitalism and personal success will solve this problem over time. Respect for the oppressed by the oppressor will come automatically because of the mutual needs to exchange goods, services and ideas.

In America in the 1980's, the oppressed are becoming a victim of a silent economic war. Drugs have become the currency of the third world. This is negative capitalism at it's most virulent. Drug lords understand capitalism and pervert it's ethics. Both the suppliers (Third World poor countries) and the users (American ghetto children) exchange goods and services, but not to the mutual benefit of both parties. The drugs are killing and maiming the children of America. Most of the profit is going to the drug lords. The famous trickle down theory keeps the third world suppliers from starvation. This is a classic example of negative capitalism. While this can be called a business, it is in reality an extortion racket. It causes good people to poison other good people because of the desperate needs of the supplier and user. This is like Hitler creating jobs by hiring people to kill Jews. It is a form of social insanity that must be stopped, no matter what other social problems appear. The rise of fascism is the inevitable outcome of this scenario. Then we will all have lost our freedom.

My personal pet project won't be able to succeed or even get off to a good start until the solutions include the solving of the drug problem among the young in America. What good will it do to teach positive capitalism when a person is in the grips of drug addiction. This problem must be attacked at both ends of the spectrum.

You might ask yourself how can I create a business using positive capitalism that will solve this problem. This is my challenge and this is my goal. The rest of this discussion will be in "The Book of Solutions," see Chapter Seven. The methods used as a solution will carry over into the classroom programs.

For the wealthier advanced members, we will develop a computer video network classroom program. We will develop a sophisticated group of investments that will show a good return for the members and make a political statement consistent with positive capitalism. This type of classroom program or network will need a capital basis to support it initially. I will try to supply this capital basis myself, but it may have to wait until there are enough members. This program will require extensive computer and video equipment. We'll need a permanent headquarters and a large advertising budget.

One of the main purposes of this networking program, other than making profit for it's members, will be the singling out of the best capitalists and making them known. They will be judged mostly on their problem solving abilities. They should be the new heroes of society. Most often they will be the people earning the most money, but not always.

The party will make a list of problems that need to be solved. We will also list as many potential solutions as possible. We will then monitor these problems and solutions on the networking program. The solutions will come from anyone networking with us. I will put my two cents worth in, but just because I started this network doesn't make me right. My opinion won't be valued anymore than anyone else's. Results will be the only barometer. I just want to be responsible for the start-up of the networking program. I'll set some initial goals and then let it evolve naturally into whatever the future dictates. The ability to be flexible and creative in solving societies problems instead of having a system that soon becomes obsolete, like communism, will be the beauty of The Capitalist Party. Solutions won't be bureaucratically decimated by leaders. The individual will have more power to change the world than ever before.

The classroom program will also teach members how to spot communist rhetoric disguised in political non sequiturs. Anti-capitalist propaganda will also be exposed. This part of the program will strengthen the capitalists resolve in creating social change.

marketing techniques. If this interferes with any laws, the system will be adjusted to accomplish the same end results. The only way the bureaucrats and politicians will be able to regulate us out of existence will be to make capitalism illegal. If they even try that, they will show their true colors and they will self destruct.

Once a person has become a member, the latest technology for identification will be used to protect the investment for the members. At the present time, credit cards with holographic features seem to be the safest method. We can use plastic credit cards for members that already possess them. We can issue cards to anyone that doesn't have existing credit cards. These will be good only for party membership activities.

All of these financial transactions will be maintained in computer banks and checked periodically by auditors and rechecked by trustees to assure the integrity of the system. In other words, normal business practices will be employed as is consistent with good capitalism.

STAR LIFE PROJECT (HUMANARIUM)

The Star Life project name came from an idea that is probably as old as the first dream of living in outer space. The project will deal with the commercialization and expansion of the territory of space as a place to live and work. Space will be the new real estate. Floating cities will be possible in the future. Development will no longer be hindered by government intervention and harassment.

What type of political system will work when a whole city can just pick up and move? Any system based on force will be abandoned by reasonable people. Any intrusive government will just be left behind to control itself.

The Humanarium project is a combination of a biosphere and a defense structure. In other words, it is like a human aquarium, oriented toward human survival and self-sufficiency.

The structures will be built in areas previously unthinkable as human habitats. Places like the middle of the desert, below and above the oceans of the world, mountain tops in remote areas, the North and South Pole environments, and finally outer space.

In general, the Humanariums would be structured as follows:

1. Round core with attachment parts to give it any appearance desired.
2. Have the ability to attach to permanent sites.
3. Made with outer walls of high-tech plastic using a pultrusion extruder, having a hollow skin, with triangular and hollow beams.
4. Computerized to control the environment.
5. Equipped with an on-board mini-extruder and crushing machine to make computerized replacement parts from the old parts.
6. Equipped with water and waste recycling system.
7. Equipped with hydroponics plant and fish food systems.
8. Equipped with a self-contained power system, including solar cells in the outside walls; solar heating and air conditioning in the outside walls; computer-controlled, movable windmill type funnels formed from the outside walls; and any other state-of-the-art power system.
9. Recreation center complete with exercise equipment including a pool that is part of the recycled water system.

BUREAUCRATS' RESPONSIBILITY ACT

In 1984, the year government is suppose to finally complete its major goal of control in America according to popular literature of the time. It is more likely that we will hit the wall and turn in the other direction towards more individual freedom. We need to permanently stop the process of increasing government control. Some politicians from the liberal left never cease trying to solve all of society's problems with government control.

The big problem with government control is the damage done to individuals caught up in red tape. The bureaucrat just blames other bureaucrats or the rules themselves when someone is caught up in a ridiculous situation. The famous Catch 22 is a lot more common than most people realize. There is no recourse, and there is very little chance of proving that an individual bureaucrat has caused harm.

We need to draft laws that control government bureaucrats. These laws will force legislators to think of the consequences of restrictive laws. These laws will also force bureaucrats to use common sense instead of the letter of the law when dealing with the public.

Most laws are good for most people, but fail to take into account the incredible diversity of human actions and their motivations. Many times a citizen will be performing a very moral act but fall into some bureaucrat's rule-trap. Bureaucrats have got to get back to being public servants and not public dictators. This will not happen voluntarily. A massive awareness program must be sustained until government is permanently cut back to the minimum. More political effort has to be put into eliminating old laws and stopping new laws. There are too many vested interests in keeping old laws and making new laws. Laws are to lawyers and bureaucrats what an inventory is to a shopkeeper. Shopkeepers would love to be in the position that lawyers and bureaucrats are in. All they have to do to increase their business is think up a new rule to restrict something or someone.

EXPANSION OF THE UNITED STATES

Expansion of The United States can happen in several different ways. The best way is to include existing countries into our charter, much the same way we did with Texas and California. This is a two-sided problem.

Most people have forgotten the meaning and purpose of uniting states. We have lost out convictions about the power and freedom contained within our Constitution. We have replaced them with a contented superiority. We are like the spoiled, rich kid in the neighborhood. Our parents did a lot of good in the community, but as rich kids, we are afraid we cannot live up to our image. Where once we acted with open-armed friendliness, we now act like a private country club.

This attitude will be the undoing of America in the future. Most people in America cannot understand why we are hated and resented even by our allies. It is because others cannot join our club. America has to stop plying nationalism. The words "United States" should become an invitation to join us willingly.

The citizens can still have regional pride. Witness Texas, the friendliest state in the Union. It still has the right to withdraw from the Union by a simple vote of the people. Texans have an enormous pride in their state but recognize the need for a larger participation in the world economic community.

Equal economic opportunity is the key to a successful United States. With two hundred states rather than just fifty, the system would work that much better. Free trade would be constitutionally guaranteed. People would still be Californians or Costa Ricans or Panamanians or New Zealanders, but their economic opportunities would be enhanced and guaranteed. Their regional pride and customs would remain the same, but their economic power would increase.

Positive capitalism that assures constitutional democracy can raise the standard of living of millions of oppressed people worldwide. Expanding the United States requires a clear political and economic direction that assures both existing member states and possible new states, a successful symbiotic relationship.

“HOW TO MAKE MONEY” COURSES IN SCHOOLS

The “How to Make Money” program will be the cornerstone of the future for The International Capitalist Party. People intuitively know how to make money for survival. Necessity is the mother of invention, especially when it comes to personal survival. This necessity causes people to turn to capitalism for survival. It does not matter what type of political system they are involved with. Their government could be communist or a military dictatorship, but their personal solution to survival is most often of a capitalist nature. By formalizing this technique and combining it with positive attitudes, changes can be made anywhere.

In the so-called Free World, the emphasis will be on purification of political systems that emphasize the positive. People will have to learn how to free themselves from government control. They will have to learn how to stop communist, fascist, and statist ideas within their own system. They will have to learn how to stop negative capitalism and to keep religion out of direct control of the state without stopping personal beliefs. These are the keys to making money through positive capitalism.

Business schools and business courses teach the basics but lack a coherent philosophy that can be put into action for a firm political direction. In most cases, they teach the mechanics but not the general overall purpose. We will enhance existing business courses where possible, with a clear economic philosophy in the direction of an international capitalist party.

Where a complete system of business education and motivation is needed, we will start such an organization. This organization will be run very much like a franchise business. In most cases, we will use our regional headquarters as a classroom. Using our headquarters will double usage of the facilities and will enhance investment income for the members who own the variable net income trust deed on the headquarters property.

We will also start a computer network for people who want to be in touch with the newest innovations within our party. This system will be the advanced money-making course that will enhance the incomes of those already involved in positive capitalism. It will be like a private stock exchange, dealing in party owned companies and new enterprises started by members. The computer network will be a “members only” system that conforms to existing laws. We will work to change restrictive laws with this area. Until then, we will conform and evolve into a free system.

MEMBERSHIPS BACKED BY INCOME PROPERTIES

Other sections of this book thoroughly discuss the details of membership. In this section, you will find out The Capitalist Party will be funded through memberships backed by free and clear income properties. There are many alternatives to consider, but the use of free and clear income properties is the first choice for the following reasons:

1. Property ownership is the main indicator of a free society. When the majority of individuals own real estate, government control is less pervasive.
2. Capitalism, by definition, implies the accumulation of capital by an enterprise. This accumulation of capital will give our party the power to get it’s message across to the people. This capital will also fund programs that encourage positive capitalism. The capital will be used to finance problem solving ideas approved by the party.
3. Capitalism is by nature not altruistic. We exchange goods, services, and ideas for mutual benefit. The party therefore needs an investment medium that gives a profit to the people who become members and work for the party. The profit should be the first indicator of our sincerity in dealing with political and economic principles. Starting The International Capitalist Party without this consistency would be hypocritical and unethical.
4. Maximum safety for members’ investment capital is primary to a successful investment program. Because we are pursuing a new way of conducting political business, we need a vehicle that cannot be abuse in the future. Free and clear property cannot be stolen, put into a Swiss bank, or spent foolishly, Once these free and clear properties are on the books, the trustees will see that abuses of funds earned will be kept to an absolute minimum. This “checks and balances” system will also assure that government regulators will not have a heyday trying to put us out of business. The government’s interference will be fought on firm ground, with high ideals and clear principles. This is a new form of political power. It is to be hoped we will be able to convince the people in government that this party supports their own best interests as human beings not necessarily as a bureaucrat, politician or law maker.
5. Any political party needs money to be effective. The International Capitalist Party is not in a hurry. We have all the time we need to form a solid capital base. Evolution in a natural way is the direction we will take to avoid physical violence in the name of political expedience.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO THE PEOPLE WHO ARE NOT A PART OF THIS SYSTEM?

The only people who will not be part of this system are people with not goods, services, or ideas of any benefit to others or those who refuse to contribute their efforts to society. They will find that the “something for nothing/the world owes me a living” attitude will get them what they deserve.

In American society, they include welfare cheats, thieves, drug dealers, and members of some religious cults.

Obviously, there is some crossover activity within the groups.

These are not adult human beings, but immature personalities. They should be allowed to simmer in their own juices, with a minimum of notice by the rest of society. They are like spoiled children who throw a temper tantrum when they do not get their own way. Let them hit their heads against a wall until they either destroy themselves or knock some sense into their heads. Otherwise, they will gleefully drag everybody down to their level.

The choice of being part of a fair system, once it is in place, will always be theirs. They should be allowed to fail whenever they wish. The pain may turn them around into a positive mode that will benefit everyone. The one thing we do not want to do with failure is make it so oppressive that there is no hope left for a person to change.

People who carry their own weight in society, according to their own ability, should be considered a success. A man or woman who is a conscientious and hard working laborer is as successful a human being as a brilliant scientist or a movie star, provided the person is maximizing his or her own potential. This type of success is an internal, personal type of success that builds self esteem. A great scientist cannot feel more satisfaction than the laborer if both are maximizing their potential. You are born with certain genetic possibilities to work with. You are free to choose how well you put your talents to use. The system will leave you behind if you do not heed this message. You will not be kicked out of the system, but will leave it from lack of use.

HOW LONG WILL IT TAKE TO ORGANIZE THE INTERNATIONAL CAPITALIST PARTY?

I started The International Capitalist Party on July 4, 1976 as a birthday present to America.

This seems the synthesis of the political problems in The United States: The democrats suffer from misplaced compassion, which causes the Democrats, economically, to fall into the hands of The Communist Party. Their contradiction lies in the fact that they support individual property rights to an extent. The Republicans tend to be better at economics by espousing the free enterprise system, but they are handicapped by their religious and racial prejudices.

I started The International Capitalist Party to give America a clear, concise force with which to deal with these diverse ideas. Capitalism is the balancing force that allows compassion to flourish without being abused or used as an excuse to make restrictive rules by government. Capitalism recognizes all individuals equally, according to their abilities and efforts.

CHAPTER SIX QUESTIONS

- * At this point, you may have a few questions. The following questions are those most often asked. Answers are presented in the remainder of this chapter.
- * Why is the world talking about an economic system (communism) and the way political leaders are given power (democracy)?
- * What group of people will benefit the most from a capitalist type political party?
- * What will happen to the people who are not a part of this system?
- * How long will it take to organize The International Capitalist Party?
- * How much will it cost, and how will the finances be handled?
- * Will the party be organized openly in every country?
- * What individuals or groups will be asked to join this political party?
- * What method will be used to get across The International Capitalist Party message?
- * Which country will be the home base?
- * Does the party have any need for a charter or by-laws?
- * What type of resistance should we expect?
- * Are there different forms of capitalism?
- * Can this party function in countries that are not democratic?
- * How will The International Capitalist Party compete with other forms of government?

WHY IS THE WORLD TALKING ABOUT AN ECONOMIC SYSTEM (COMMUNISM) AND THE WAY POLITICAL LEADERS ARE GIVEN POWER (DEMOCRACY)?

The reason we are trying to sell democracy instead of capitalism as an alternative to communism is because the western leaders and bureaucrats have a vested interest in what they call a mixed society (socialism and free enterprise market mixed together).

All governments, even the best, keep their eyes on the power strings. They must practice as much communism as possible to enhance their power. They try not to label economic power communism. Instead, they soften the blow by calling it socialism or a mixed economy.

The biggest problem with this approach by the western world is that a communist can be elected. Once in power, he or she can enforce communist ideals. The following is a list of communist ideals taken directly from Karl Marx's and Friedrich Engels' Communist Manifesto, which has been embraced to different degrees by the western nations: Graduated income tax that supports a welfare state. Public education at taxpayer expense. Confiscation and redistribution of property. State owned businesses. Central state owned banking control. Registration of all citizens (IRS and drivers license) High inheritance taxes. Control of communications and transportation.

These are eight of the ten key points of communism. The other two, establishment of industrial armies and more even distribution of people between town and country areas, have already happened by choice and circumstance in most western countries.

Big Brother has not only arrived, but is ready to turn the whole world over to Mom and Pop, "the dictators of the proletariat." Then we will truly be thrown back to the Dark Ages.

We have got to start talking about the two basic economic systems -- capitalism versus communism -- and quit hiding behind a defense of democracy. Capitalism assumes democracy! Communism does not care about democracy one way or the other because it only cares about the economic policies. Communists know that, with the above mentioned policies, no matter how they arrive at them, they have achieved political control. FREEDOM IS FREEDOM FROM GOVERNMENT!

WHAT GROUP OF PEOPLE WILL BENEFIT THE MOST FROM A CAPITALIST TYPE POLITICAL PARTY?

The individual will benefit the most. All groups will lose power. This is because government will be less effective. The government will not control our lives; therefore, all types of lobbying and pressure groups will cease to have the ability to distort society from its natural path. Individual rights will be stronger and special interest groups will be weaker when the so called mixed economic society is seen for what it really is, a confused society.

The group of individuals that will benefit the most are the ones furthest from a capitalist lifestyle. These people are also the ones who think they have the most to lose. They are the people with the most immature attitudes toward humanity. They are a coalition of the "something for nothing folks" and the "control addicts." Both types create havoc with a free society. These individuals must be made to become productive members of society or to support their own bad habits. A truly needy person will find no shortage of compassion from a capitalist society.

"Something for nothing people" and "control addicts" must be exposed, chastised, and then trained to improve their own self-esteem. The "something for nothing people" are the infantile adults of the world. They use the kindness of others to get by, and then they abuse this kindness. They contribute nothing, believing the world owes them a living. The "control addicts" (negative politicians, religious leaders, dictators and the like) uses misplaced compassion as a sales tool. These infantile adults enslave the workers by confiscating their income, using misplaced compassion as an excuse to support the lazy and unwilling potential workers in society. Once these infantile adults of both types are redirected into positive capitalism, society will have cured a deadly social cancer.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO THE PEOPLE WHO ARE NOT A PART OF THIS SYSTEM?

The only people who will not be part of this system are people with not goods, services, or ideas of any benefit to others or those who refuse to contribute their efforts to society. They will find that the "something for nothing/the world owes me a living" attitude will get them what they deserve.

HOW LONG WILL IT TAKE TO ORGANIZE THE INTERNATIONAL CAPITALIST PARTY?

I started The International Capitalist Party on July 4, 1976 as a birthday present to America.

This seems the synthesis of the political problems in The United States: The democrats suffer from misplaced compassion, which causes the Democrats, economically, to fall into the hands of The Communist Party. Their contradiction lies in the fact that they support individual property rights to an extent. The Republicans tend to be better at economics by espousing the free enterprise system, but they are handicapped by their religious and racial prejudices.

I started The International Capitalist Party to give America a clear, concise force with which to deal with these diverse ideas. Capitalism is the balancing force that allows compassion to flourish without being abused or used as an excuse to make restrictive rules by government. Capitalism recognizes all individuals equally, according to their abilities and efforts.

The first ten years of the party's existence were used for contemplation, observation, and civil disobedience. The only overt action was the quiet organization of a group of individual sympathizers and practitioners of positive capitalism. This book is the product of that time in its original version.

The next ten years will be used to build up a capital base that can be used into the future. It is a small beginning on a long road that has to be successful or the spirit of every individual will have no true champion working to free the individual from government control and abuse. Every other political, religious, or economic system works for the good of the masses, but will call for a sacrifice of the individual. The peculiar fact is that the leaders are always exempt. They live in public mansions, temples, or castles maintained by their followers.

Only capitalists earn their living standard. It is true that, if they use negative capitalism, they can be some of the worst offenders in society. This distinction will be covered in later chapters.

The International Capitalist Party will earn its way into existence and pay its own way. This is what an individual capitalist would expect from a political party that supports free enterprise. There will be distortions in this organization, because it cannot be created in a political vacuum. Outside forces from all sides will try to compromise the ideal. The organization will evolve, but will never breach its own basic principle of willing members to a mutually beneficial system. No one needs to be a loser in this process. It does not rely on an enemy to exist.

HOW WILL THE FINANCES BE HANDLED AND HOW MUCH WILL IT COST?

The total cost to establish The International Capitalist Party is impossible to even guess. The idea itself could be powerful enough to make its existence an almost immediate fact of life. The other side of the coin is that resistance or indifference to formation of the party could make it very expensive.

My ability and commitment to start up such an unusual concept can also be a major factor. I will attempt to fund the beginning completely by myself, but that might not be enough.

We will probably need a power triangle to accumulate the start up capital. The power triangle will consist of the following:

1. My assets and earnings. As a real estate investor and developer, I am in a position to place real estate holdings in the name of The International Capitalist Party. Obviously, I will have to live from these earnings and assets. I will try to have plenty left over to accomplish a successful start up program. The money I spend will be used at my own discretion, and it is the only money I will count on.

Those who wish to use their own money and have this kind of discretionary membership can use what is called a convertible grant. This type of membership gives the member the ability to control the assets placed within the party's programs. Many people share my concern over the direction that the economies of the world are taking. The other two sides of the power triangle will give them an opportunity to participate and benefit as members of a political party with a clear and consistent message.

While it is true that we would accept outright donations, this is not the method of raising money that we would prefer. Capitalism is based on a contract between two individuals that is mutually beneficial to both parties. The other two sides of the power triangle will be based on this principle, as well.

2. Membership, including individual unit trusts. This is the second side of the power triangle. This method of raising money should appeal to the individual who sympathizes with the principles of capitalism but wants more control of the assets that he or she contributes.

What this method refers to is a trust account whereby the new member and The International Capitalist Party form a limited partnership, with the party being a limited partner and the new member placing assets into a numbered trust account. The new member is the general partner on terms that are acceptable to the general partner. The assets must benefit the party in some way and must not be assets that would be considered negative capitalism, such as a business manufacturing something harmful to others.

These assets can be placed into the trust and later withdrawn at the general partner's request. Maximum flexibility should be given to the general partner, but the party should not be placed in any jeopardy. Only the individual member's imagination will determine the type of asset placed in the trust and the method that the asset benefits The International Capitalist Party.

3. Membership including a variable net income trust deed. This is the third side of the power triangle. Most individuals will want a passive way of participating in the growth of capitalism as a political power. This method is safest and the most fair way of raising money for the party and still giving a reasonable return to the member. We will buy apartment houses free and clear of loans for maximum safety and then issue variable net income trust deed certificates based on the amount the member contributes to the party. This way, no one can foreclose on the property, and the income from the investment will be paid out to the member proportionate to member's contribution. With a fifteen year trust deed, the entire contribution will be returned at that time, provided the property is worth the original amount or more. The variable net income trust deed will benefit the party in the following ways:

(A) Historically, apartment houses go up in value proportionate to the increase in income. We can place a fixed-rate loan on the property after the initial fifteen year membership period and have an income streams that can be used to further capitalist principles and ideals.

(B) The International Capitalist Party will be the management organization that handles each property. The party will charge a normal market rate for this service. At some point in the future, after the initial fifteen year start up period, management will be turned over to an outside real estate management firm. The party will want to keep any competition with private business at a minimum. This management fee will be the only income derived from the property during the first fifteen years, except for the initial real estate commission that will be earned on the initial purchase of the investment or a retained ownership percentage.

(C) The party will create jobs by having certified membership recruiters. The maxi-level membership system will be self perpetuating, with built in management levels. This part of the organization will require a membership recruiting manual, which will be my next project upon completion of this book.

The following is an example of the variable net income trust deed certificate of membership:

WILL THE PARTY BE ORGANIZED OPENLY IN EVERY COUNTRY?

The one thing that we must be most careful of is the prevailing laws of a country. These must be respected in the beginning, no matter how horrible they are.

The leaders are the problem in any government, whether elected or appointed. They must be shown that it is to their advantage to change for the good of everyone, including themselves. People who are talented and motivated enough to be leaders must not be discouraged from using their leadership abilities. They just have to evolve into better leaders. Their power will be more perfect and their self esteem at a higher level if they embrace positive capitalism. The capitalist political system should be the first that does not rely on brute force to change society. A truly adult attitude toward society will allow freedom to prevail. Defense is a must, but aggression is always counterproductive. The problem with aggression is obvious. Governments use aggression in the name of defense by tricking the populace into believing their reason for aggression. This is an extremely difficult problem with which to deal. World courts must be strengthened by giving them clear powers to enforce violations. This is an easier thing to state on paper than to do in reality.

Any method of organizing positive capitalism in a country will be acceptable except for the use of force or coercion. This objective will tax the imagination of anyone who believes in freedom for everyone.

Technology and ingenuity will probably be the ultimate answers in promoting the principles of good capitalism. Money will provide this opportunity to embrace freedom forever. People will then be free to keep the fruits of their own labor, rather than being slaves to their own ability. Governments can only exploit the abilities of the strong. They use the weak as a weapon against the best in humanity. Freedom is freedom from government.

Governments sell misplaced compassion. Open organization is our only weapon against all types of government rule. Individual responsibility must prevail after governments diminish in power. This is the evolutionary process at its most positive and productive.

WHAT INDIVIDUALS OR GROUPS WILL BE ASKED TO JOIN THIS POLITICAL PARTY?

Everyone can be a member as an individual. We will approve anyone who is interested. Any member can also join our maxi-level membership system and earn an income as a sponsor. Unlike other political parties, we will charge for membership. Also, unlike other parties, instead of asking for contributions, we will put your membership money to work for you. You will receive an income from this membership money, and it will be returned to you at a later date. In advanced democratic countries, we will act more as an advocate of positive capitalism than as an opposing political party. If the party grows naturally over a long period of time into a party with good political leaders to place on the ballot, so much the better. But this should not be our immediate goal in advanced democracies.

In other countries, members will be more interested in having a political party that can bring positive capitalism to the people. Unfortunately, in many places, a member cannot openly oppose the present system, and so it will be necessary to have numbered membership accounts, much as Swiss bank accounts protect individual members.

Unlike Swiss accounts, our numbered membership accounts must conform to the investment features of this type of membership.

Democratic countries can consider individual membership in The International Capitalist Party in oppressed societies an export product. Membership in these countries will be a good barometer of the support for the freedom movement. Foreign policy makers will be able to judge real support in an oppressed country by the number of memberships in The International Capitalist Party. To quote an old American saying, "Put your money where your mouth is." Membership will act very much like a black market vote where votes are not even allowed.

We will publicize the number of members in an oppressed country as a way for free countries to pressure oppressive governments to change their ways. The advantage of this method is that governments can change for the better without having to change leaders. We will be able to show leaders that reform is to everyone's benefit. This method should reduce the amount of violence used to change the political systems, which has marked human progress in the past.

When we have enough members, membership will not be important. Humanity will have matured into a position of responsible freedom.

WHAT METHOD WILL BE USED TO GET ACROSS THE CAPITALIST PARTY MESSAGE?

The promotion of the party's message will have to be left to the experts once the start up period is completed. In the beginning, however, memberships will be treated like a product, because of the investment feature. This method will be geared toward people who are already involved in the free enterprise system. It will be more of a head count than a conversion process to begin with.

I will be happy to just get the start up program going during my lifetime. The conversion process will be left to others in the future. I'm more interested in a firm foundation and a clear path for natural evolution. It is also possible that the evolutionary process will go faster than can be imagined because of modern communications. The following methods refer mostly to the start up process. They should also be helpful during the conversion period.

1. The publication and circulation of this book is a beginning in the new direction. This book is not meant to be written in stone, as so many other master plans for society have been interpreted. Fortunately, capitalism has been used since the beginning of time, and everyone understands its basic forms. With a clear path of development, capitalism as a political power can take its rightful place in human evolution. Capitalism is nothing more than a contract between two individuals, freely given for the mutual benefit of both parties. This book will try to refine this principle. It will give a method whereby individuals will be free politically to practice the most natural method of furthering humanity, positive capitalism. This book will be updated as needed to promote the ideals of freedom from government and economic freedom for individuals according to their ability and effort.

2. The formation of the power triangle will give a capital basis and an income to promote more memberships. We will use every type of media for promotion. The number of members will be a silent vote of confidence and the measure of success for The International Capitalist Party's message.

WHICH COUNTRY WILL BE THE HOME BASE?

Setting up regional offices in every part of the country will be my next step. This will be done after we have a firm foot hold with a good capital basis. We will own rather than rent or lease office space to give a firm footing in the area.

The third step will be an effort to set up offices in countries that are already democratic politically or where we are invited to promote capitalism.

The last and most difficult step will be going where capitalism will be met with open hostility. We will not go into these areas using force. Reason and results will have to persuade hostile societies. As the standard of living in the capitalist countries increases and world electronic communication improves, results should create a demand for positive capitalism. So-called mixed societies still have a lot of problems to solve before they can even hope to be emulated. Solutions to these problems will come from positive capitalism's solutions.

DOES THE PARTY HAVE ANY NEED FOR A CHARTER OR BY-LAWS?

Because capitalism is a champion of reducing unnecessary rules and regulations, it seems very hypocritical to add more rules to live by.

Three simple facts should be kept in mind while promoting capitalism:

1. Positive capitalism is a contract between two or more parties to exchange goods, services, or ideas willingly, without coercion, for the mutual benefit of all parties concerned.
2. Freedom is freedom from government.

3. Existing law should be obeyed, except for the use of civil disobedience when laws are politically incorrect according to your conscience. This approach provides for political evolution rather than violent revolution. Perhaps we could add one more rule for promoting capitalism. This is an old Texas saying: "Money talks and bullshit walks." This is crude but to the point. Reason and results should determine which direction humanity evolves. Positive capitalism is the only fair and sane way for everyone to enjoy life and maximize human potential. This book can be used as a guide or a plan to help organize political power to free everyone from the oppression of governments. This book is not any form of Holy Revelation or any other type of dogmatic presentation. It is just an accumulation of ideas gleaned from my own studies and observation. You will recognize many old ideas and hopefully some good new ideas. I'm sure my ideas will be improved upon by others, and that's the way it should be. That is the purpose of political evolution.

The need for a charter or by-laws for the party can be determined by others. My opinion at present is to do without either to keep from putting the future in a strait jacket. But this is an opinion that could easily be changed in the future if it is determined that charter or a set of by-laws would help promote the ideas of positive capitalism.

WHAT TYPE OF RESISTANCE SHOULD WE EXPECT?

If we make it clear that we are not trying for a violent revolution, we can diffuse a lot of the resistance. Evolution will make it possible to appeal to present leaders. They will not need to lose their personal power to embrace an orderly changeover to a system that is beneficial to everyone. No one need be a loser in this process.

I know this is an optimistic and somewhat naive expectation, but by using the right methods, significant change can be accomplished over time. The signs of social maturity are the ability to plan into the future and the patience and persistence to see the plan through. We have got to stop youthful passion and misplaced compassion from ruling our economic lives. The price is always the same. Loss of personal freedom in the name of the greater good for all. This altruistic con game has been perpetuated on humanity since the beginning of time. We need to grow up and accept responsibility for ourselves instead of selling out to some form of higher power. Freedom will only come when this happens.

Leaders who seek power for its own sake will put up a verbal smoke screen to defeat a system that does not recognize them as the all knowing soothsayers of society. Negative capitalism can even create this type of individual power seeker. Any spokesperson for The International Capitalist Party will realize that most leaders of any group will be against him or her. Making these leaders into leaders of The International Capitalist Party will be a necessary part of the evolution. The negative aspects of their character will have to be redirected into the positive. There is no use in losing their other natural talents.

There should only be one type of capitalism but, unfortunately, given human nature, devious minds will always pervert even the best ideas. Immature personalities seek to make government the father or mother substitute. In other words, for the immature person's own good, rules are made that everyone must live by, no matter how restrictive and ridiculous they are to others. Leaders promulgate a lot of rules with good intentions, but the results are like a muzzle on mature personalities. Rules are usually a true invasion of the freedoms of those not wanting to be coddled by government rules and restrictions.

If you take this father substitute situation and add in two other factors, some leaders' lust for power and the attorneys' need for rules, the stage is set to tangle humanity in a web of bureaucratic nonsense. To these factors, you can add a dose of religious fervor in some countries. It's a wonder that freedom exists anywhere.

Responsible positive capitalism is the goal of the party's political evolution. This political and economic system will maximize human potential. People will be free, happy, and successful when this system is universal. Capitalism is really about the political and economic maturing of humans as a species.

The following is a list of types of capitalism in the American society. They may be different in other countries. Most of the examples could be the positive capitalistic type if restructured over a period of time.

POSITIVE CAPITALISM: Any private enterprise that provides goods and services at a competitive price with reasonable quality or at least the quality expected by the consumer. The following industries are of the type that have the intrinsic possibility to be in this category. However, someone could be in one of these businesses and still fall into the negative capitalism role. Medicine Building and construction Banking and finance Farming and food services Manufacturing Wholesale and retail marketing Police and fire departments

QUESTIONABLE:

Any enterprise usually influenced by government participation or over regulation, or actually a pseudo-governmental agency.

Lawyers and judges.

Gas, electric, telephone and cable companies (public monopolies).

All government agencies.

Public school systems.

Tax accountants.

NEGATIVE CAPITALISM: Any type of enterprise that is almost always hurting someone either physically, mentally, or financially.

Drug dealers

Prostitution

Con games or scams

Exclusionary organizations

Cigarette and alcohol manufacturing and marketing

CAN THIS PARTY FUNCTION IN COUNTRIES THAT ARE NOT DEMOCRATIC?

As mass communication and the world electronic cottage becomes a reality, it will be harder for oppressive countries to keep political freedom from their citizens. Membership in The International Capitalist Party will act like a popularity poll favoring freedom.

Any way that we can find to increase membership in non-democratic countries will bring these countries closer to freedom. Actually functioning as a political force in these countries will be a true test of ingenuity. The initial thrust will have to come from outside forces, much the same way democracy is being sold today. The difference is a clear cut economic system that people can impose on their government with strong black market trading and civil disobedience.

This strategy will develop as the party gains acceptance. The success in non democratic countries will be proportionate to the party's strength in democratic countries. It is harder to argue with success.

In some cases, the leaders will be receptive to allowing positive capitalism into their countries as an economic system, even though a particular personality may have complete control of the government. Sometimes it might be a country that has a sham democracy, such as Mexico, that sees capitalism can benefit everyone, including the leaders. Once established as an economic system, capitalism can evolve into a political system that reduces government control over business and the individual.

HOW WILL THE INTERNATIONAL CAPITALIST PARTY COMPETE WITH OTHER FORMS OF GOVERNMENT?

Most of the answers to this question will come in other chapters of this book. Competition is the key to solving problems, provided negative behavior is not incorporated in the solution. The most obvious form of negative behavior used by every government is force, whether physical, mental, or economic.

The difference between our solutions and government's solution is the lack of force. If we have no viable solutions, then our existence will be a mistake.

The "Book of Solutions" chapter in this book will be the most evolutionary part of the book. It will be continually updated and will soon have to be a separate book in itself. Hopefully, others will add their solutions using capitalistic methods.

Competition should start in countries that claim to embrace the free enterprise system. This process is already taking place, but it needs to be clearly defined to give it political strength and stability. The constant meshing of private enterprises with government solutions creates a mixed up society. Government interference in the economy should be kept to a bare minimum. The less influence a government has over financial policies, the freer the people.

Pinpointing communist economic influences in a country and explaining the dire consequences of following these destructive policies will be a good starting place for investing political moneys earned by The International Capitalist Party. I will concentrate on this effort to the limit of my funds and ability. This is a torch that must be carried on after the start up program to complete the evolution of positive capitalism and total political freedom for everyone.

Chapter Seven

BOOK OF SOLUTIONS

UNIVERSAL PROBLEMS INTERNATIONAL PROBLEMS

NATIONAL PROBLEMS

LOCAL PROBLEMS, SAN DIEGO

LOCAL PROBLEMS, HOUSTON

This part of the book will evolve into a separate book of its own. I will contribute to it as long as possible. If the process proves successful, others will follow with solutions.

My method for finding solutions is based on my experience at problem solving in real estate. A multiple exchange of properties is usually the best solution to difficult situations. It has often been said that one person's problem is another person's opportunity. By replacing the "person" in this equation with "company," "country," "municipality," "ethnic group," or any other term for a group, you can see the basis of problem solving. Add positive capitalism with political power to this equation, and natural solutions should follow.

Most social solutions cause other problems. As long as the new set of problems is minor, the original solution can be considered viable. The evolutionary process will gradually refine society to provide a better life for each individual. This list of problems will be updated as events bring new problems to light.

The mission of positive capitalism is to solve problems, and its success as a political party should always be judged by this criteria. Who is in a leadership capacity is only a secondary goal that supports the primary goal.

How often we have heard that the two things we can count on in life are death and taxes. This is very true but very negative. Our political fortunes will be tied to turning this negative reality into positive results. Every solution will have as its primary goal either the extension of life or the elimination of taxes by governments. This will be the acid test for success.

Many of the solutions presented here are drawn from positions that are already being considered as solutions. The party should have as clear a policy concerning issues and problems as possible. These solutions are more of an endorsement than a creative answer to problems.

UNIVERSAL PROBLEMS

How can people learn to accept one another's common humanity without reservation?

How can universally accepted principles of conduct be established?

How will humanity survive in the future?

How can religion and positive capitalism reconcile their differences?

How will other political systems fit in during and after the evolutionary process?

How can over population be turned into a positive human condition?

How can industrial growth be reconciled with environmental problems?

Is peace possible? If so, how can it be accomplished?

Can science and religion be reconciled?

Can human intelligence be expanded?

Is it possible to reduce cognitive dissonance in individuals?

How can government control of individual rights be reduced permanently?

What role will politics play in space?

HOW CAN PEOPLE LEARN TO ACCEPT ONE ANOTHER'S

COMMON HUMANITY WITHOUT RESERVATION?

The great majority of people already realize the importance of accepting differences in people, but some do not. Acceptance is an emotional response that can be manipulated by negative leaders. This negativity creates power for leaders; it gives them an excuse to exercise power against others. First the leaders create the enemy, and then they use this hatred to enslave their followers.

The following is a list of reasons leaders have used to manipulate hate:

1. Racial conflict.

(A) Claims of inferior intelligence.

(B) Claims of inherent evil coupled with religious bigotry.

(C) Fear of miscegenation.

(D) Claims of overpopulation by the other race.

(F) Territorial disputes.

(G) Claims based on old documents and treaties.

(H) Claims based on the need for "lebensraum" (more space for citizens).

(I) Claims based on divine right.

(J) Religious differences.

(K) Claims that the Almighty has chosen a certain group of people as superior by becoming a member of their group.

(L) Claims based on religious territory.

(M) Claims based on a caste system supported by religious dogma.

Most negative leaders use as many of the above as possible to enhance their personal power. Because acceptance is an emotional problem, knowledge and communication are the only defense. Positive capitalism uses none of the above reasons to excuse its existence. We can replace many power systems because of humans' natural positive nature. Fear will be replaced by knowledge and communication.

Evolution of the human species can be measured by the elimination of negative motives. Territorial claims can be settled by arbitration and monetary settlements. These are merely political real estate deals.

The only remaining political entities will have economics as a basis. If people are free to choose which economic system they want to live under, there will be a natural balance and peace. We will promote positive capitalism as the best system but coexist with any other viable, freely chosen economic system. Remember, freedom is freedom from government!

HOW CAN UNIVERSALLY ACCEPTED PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT BE ESTABLISHED?

These principles will be easy to establish by just taking a common sense approach to organized religion. Remove the religious dogma and references and most of the universal principles will remain. A person can then interject private religious beliefs without interfering with other peoples' belief. The goal is maximum freedom and minimum interference by religious zealots. Universal principles of conduct should be very much like the Ten Commandments, but without any religious claim. These ideals should not automatically be enforced by law. Some principles will rely on common sense and reason as the enforcement agency. Personal responsibility must be the license to call oneself an adult. Retraining deviant behavior rather than retribution should be the method used to enforce most of the principles.

To establish a set of universal principles acceptable to everyone, a world political body with power to make and enforce laws seems most logical. This has been a goal of many great leaders throughout history, but they have had very mixed results. The larger nations and empires are a product of this type of thinking. The United States of America could very easily have been several different countries without the dream of a common purpose by a few great statesmen.

The problem with forming any world political body is that individuals who disagree with the edicts of such an organization would lack recognition. How can this problem be reconciled to the satisfaction of all concerned? The answer would seem to be that the fewer rules put forth by this organization, the better. Regional or local refinements of these rules could more easily reconcile individual and group differences.

HOW WILL HUMANITY SURVIVE IN THE FUTURE

Survival will probably depend on how we handle population growth. There are three ways this scenario can work itself out:

1. Reduce the population with a major war or disaster.
2. Maintain present population with strict birth control.
3. Accommodate population growth with a plan.

A plan is the most reasonable solution to population growth. One of the six major functions of The International Capitalist Party will be solving the future population problem. You will find more detail concerning this plan in Chapter Five, which discusses the Star Life Project. The Star Life Project is basically a survival plan. We will develop Humanariums (biospheres) to test technologies that will be useful politically here on Earth and also in future space colonization. The party will take a strictly commercial interest in their development, using capitalist principles as the best and most efficient method of development.

HOW CAN RELIGION AND POSITIVE CAPITALISM RECONCILE THEIR DIFFERENCES?

The moral demands of positive capitalism are actually in concert with most religious thought. If the moral demands are not met, the capitalist suffers directly. Capitalism is actually more demanding because of the direct “cause and effect” nature of each business transaction. Such things as talent, effort, and judgment directly affect a capitalist with the best of intentions. Religion and positive capitalism come into conflict in two basic ways. The first is when an old rule or dogma or a particular religious sect contradicts common sense or common knowledge. Capitalism does not have any interest in stopping religious practices. We do have an interest in stopping any type of intimidation or force used to make non believers conform with a particular religious practice. Freedom of choice is our bylaw when dealing with religious thought or action. We do not condone or condemn religion. We use each religious code in a positive way. Any moral demand that is good within itself and does not harm non believers because of religious hate is an asset. We will embrace these positive thoughts and ideas.

The other way religion and capitalism come into conflict is when individuals use capitalistic methods in a negative way. Drug dealers, pimps, extortionists, and the like would be extreme examples. These people call what they do business, but in fact they are dealing in death and destruction. It is our responsibility to purge society of these parasites. Religion, unfortunately, tries to use force in the form of laws to solve these problems. Capitalist can see the profit motive being abused and would take the profit out of these activities to solve this problem. Resentment against the establishment is often the misdirected reason some people get involved in negative, self-destructive social behavior. These people feel and sometimes know the double standard that society imposes up them. Government and religion could help by removing the element of force in “freedom of choice” activities. They should join in the battle to make these activities unprofitable, not illegal. Participating in these activities would then lose its popularity, creating a minimum amount of negative activity. Positive capitalism and organized religion should always be on the same side concerning these problems. Religion could be the expert in all morally negative behavior, and positive capitalism could provide the practical solutions. This partnership should provide the most obvious and perfect solution to problems that have been with humanity from the beginning of civilization.

HOW WILL OTHER POLITICAL SYSTEMS FIT IN DURING AND AFTER THE EVOLUTIONARY PROCESS?

Most other political systems will be useful during evolutionary change as an examples of backward societies. There will be exceptions, in which a system will be symbolically retained. A present example is the monarchy in England. It has no political power but has become a great tourist attraction.

During the evolutionary process, we will try to dwell on the positive parts of other political systems. A good example would be free communism of the type practiced in Israel. Voluntary groups of people share their lifestyle as evenly as possible. A system like this can work on a limited basis, provided everyone agrees to it without force or coercion.

Without force, you cannot create a class of slaves. A slave is an individual forced to work for others with the sanctions of the government. People’s right to keep the fruits of their labor are abused. Anyone calling this a fair system must have a gun to his or her head or have a dark, ulterior motive.

Every system that does not include the freedom to withdraw from that system will not be a viable alternative when the evolutionary process is completed. The completion of the evolutionary process will be marked more by this element of freedom than it is by the participation of everyone in positive capitalism. Some people constitutionally are more comfortable in a very controlled situation. A professional soldier is a classic example. As long as people are within this system voluntarily, there is no harm. They should not have the right to force others into their controlled environment. Military dictators should become football coaches or professional dance instructors or join other positive professions that require strict discipline and order on a voluntary basis.

Communism can also be a useful system if properly identified as the charity part of society. Voluntary transfer payments from those who have to those who truly need will probably always constitute a small portion of any political system. The fallacy of misplaced compassion should never be the driving force of any society. This is always the hallmark of government control and should be resisted and removed in whatever form it takes so humanity can be finally and forever free.

HOW CAN OVERPOPULATION BE TURNED INTO A POSITIVE HUMAN CONDITION?

There is nothing more important in the universe than a human life. The more people who are given a chance to live, the better. Overpopulation is a political problem caused by lack of freedom and knowledge. The only way overpopulation can become an asset is to have a political system that allows private solutions to society's problems. A politician or bureaucrat looks at a lot of people and sees a lot of customers. One person's problem is another person's opportunity. Human ingenuity will solve any population problem. The use of money and creation of wealth, if properly understood, will create solutions.

Some of the healthiest economies are in highly populated areas with minimum government interference. Hong Kong is a city soon to be blighted with government control. Hong Kong possibly could avoid government interference if negative capitalism was not part of their system. No one could throw stones at the progress made in this great city if the low life element was removed or retrained. Even with this negative element, the living standard is far above that of the giant country that surrounds it. The contrast is so great that the giant, China, will eat this oasis of freedom to perpetuate its big lie.

Japan is another area of high population that uses positive capitalism to solve population problems. It proves that population is not the problem when a country is motivated to solve problems using the profit motive.

Eventually, there will be overpopulation, but if addressed the same way as any problem under positive capitalism, the solution will be obvious. Some examples of these solutions follow:

The Humanarium project will make uninhabitable areas livable by total environmental control.

The Star-Life project will make space an unlimited area of colonization.

A combination of these two projects could even produce a scientific solution: maximum birth. This concept has not yet been addressed because the technology and the supporting ethical and moral philosophy has not been available. Basically, maximum birth is the voluntary fertilization of as many human eggs as possible. A woman could produce twelve or thirteen eggs per year without any technical enhancement. Obviously, each of these eggs would have to be brought to term outside the woman's body. Such a baby Humanarium could be very important once the need to populate space becomes apparent. The chief concern is the quality of life for children born into this situation. The challenge will be to combine hi-tech with hi-touch to produce a complete person. If this can be accomplished, only the most superstitious and foolish person will have an objection to maximum birth. Voluntary fertilization will be the beginning of this high quality, life giving situation. "The Curse" will be turned into a blessing of unbelievable beauty.

HOW CAN INDUSTRIAL GROWTH BE RECONCILED WITH ENVIRONMENTAL PROBLEMS?

Environmental problems are probably the greatest potential source of new business. The environment is the most important problem today. Positive Capitalism will aim it" creative thrust not only at preserving natural habitats but also at enhancing and improving environments. The concept of resource allocation will have a new and more complete meaning when the ecosystems of the universe are understood better. The abrasive technologies of high pollution and questionable output are already being phased out. The politics of resisting change is the only impediment. The pessimists must have their say, just in case a legitimate argument for delay can be produced. If delay can be produced, a new problem solving business will sprout up to clear the day. The human spirit will not be denied its destiny.

IS PEACE POSSIBLE? IF SO, HOW CAN IT BE ACCOMPLISHED?

Peace will only be possible on a lasting basis when people are free to move from one type of political system to another. There will never be one system that appeals to everyone. Positive Capitalism and voluntary communism will be the two main choices. There should also be some free religious governments to give everyone a choice. Movement from one system to another by individuals without penalty and by choice will alleviate the pressure for conversion, the main source of tension.

Human psychology has shown how different the perception of reality can be from person to person. Some people need total freedom to function at their best, and other people require and freely admit that they prefer to be controlled. Still others want to comply with a religious philosophy that may be a combination of freedom and control. Everyone can be satisfied, provided individuals are allowed to seek their preference without penalty.

In the future, people may try many different systems before making a long term choice. Direct experience living in different cultures would make anyone realize the common humanity in most systems. Friendly competition rather than the wish to convert should be the message presented by the leaders of every system. There is no need for an enemy.

The International Capitalist Party does not need to convert, because capitalism is the oldest form of politics. We only need to give capitalism power until the other systems allow freedom of choice instead of trying to force unnatural politics on individuals.

CAN SCIENCE AND RELIGION BE RECONCILED?

They will never be completely reconciled until the words "Fact" and "Faith" have the same meaning. When either scientists or religious people can prove their after death theory, the two systems will merge. Until then, they will be natural antagonists.

Both systems try to blend for the mutual benefit of everyone. This blending of ideas benefits humanity. The International Capitalist Party need only be concerned with being a good listener.

The two systems represent the rational and the emotional side of human nature. Either carried to a extreme will probably cause harm to society. Together they can give a natural balance until the universe and all its mysteries are unraveled.

The International Capitalist Party” position will be that there is not a conclusive answer. The abuse of power from either of these positions is the only concern the party should have. Individual preferences for ideas are the by-product of a free society. We will try to take the best from both systems to create a positive economic and political system.

CAN HUMAN INTELLIGENCE BE EXPANDED?

Part of the Humanarium program will be to create an environment that could be considered a brain extender. The Humanarium (biosphere) environment will not only have computers but also private extruders and regenerating energy systems. This combination should be able to adapt to any new technology. Several organizations are already dealing exclusively with this problem. Intelligence can be expanded externally and internally. Artificial intelligence is the current hi-tech solution in the computer field. This type of intelligence should be able to handle more information because of its ability to store unlimited memory. The question will become whether its decision-making process and imagination or innovative facility can surpass basic human capacity. If this happens, the only superior mental activity we will have beyond our emotional lives will be freedom of choice. We will always control the on/off button.

Internal brain improvement should also be taken very seriously in the future. We now have the beginnings of the ability to analyze and define brain parts. By asking the right questions and creating the right tools, any physical problem should be solvable. The new computerized medical machines, combined with our natural curiosity, should help us expand the use of a semi-dormant organ like the human brain.

To be very futuristic, one could imagine an individual brain being used to the maximum in concert with the state-of-the-art artificial intelligence machine. Given the human capacity for always wanting forty percent more, no matter what one has, the cloning of a portable brain to give even more intelligence to the individual may occur.

IS IT POSSIBLE TO REDUCE COGNITIVE DISSONANCE IN INDIVIDUALS?

Cognitive dissonance is the individual” ability to know what is right and good but still do the opposite in a very destructive way. Some examples follow:

Smoking cigarettes while knowing the health problems.

Stealing while knowing the likelihood of getting caught.

Driving fast while knowing the statistics of traffic deaths on the highway.

This is not a discussion about making mistakes, but one about deliberately abusing oneself or others knowing the probable consequences. This behavior has been called many things, including negative thinking, antisocial behavior, and deviant personality type. We all suffer from this negative behavior to some degree. Mental confusion and misplaced priorities seem to be with all of us. Could there be some general root causes?

To understand how strange this type of behavior is, one needs only think of a dog or a bird killing itself by smoking cigarettes. All of the other species use their limited mentalities to survive the best way possible. For some reason, even when we know better, we forget the most basic rules of survival.

Possible reasons for the existence of cognitive dissonance are:

Psychological – Emotional – Chemical – Social – Economic – Political

Any of these six major categories can be attached and show results over a period of time. The problem will never be solved unless all five categories are in harmony within the individual.

The International Capitalist Party will try to deal with cognitive dissonance by providing a non-contradictory economic and political system that spells out clearly and defends the positive aspects of life. The other two parts of the problem will have to be dealt with from a scientific and medical point of view. The combination of solutions should give us our best chance of lowering the incidence of dissonant behavior.

HOW CAN GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF INDIVIDUAL RIGHTS BE REDUCED PERMANENTLY?

As an example, laws protecting individual rights will have to be passed in countries that have the ability to pass such laws. Democracies can either put out a clear message of freedom or a mixed message of government interference. Freedom is freedom FROM government, and any excuse to the contrary dilutes freedom. Freedom and positive capitalism set an example that will be an irresistible force in the world. America now sends out mixed messages. Government interferes in every phase of life, and it has a corresponding high degree of negative capitalism. The heavy hand of government causes a lot of negative capitalism. Whenever the human spirit is shackled by rules that assume everyone is the same, a natural and destructive rebellion will always occur. This frustration of being unduly controlled is like a nervous tic. If you force a cure, the problem will just crop up again in a different form. The real cure is always freedom of choice and will never change. Government and the beneficiaries of control will do anything to tighten the noose of restrictions on individual rights and thereby enhance their power and control over individual citizens. The diligence of a political system supported by aware individuals is the only way to stop the loss of freedom that every government tries to force on its citizens. Creative laws against lawmakers' ability to restrict the rest of us are needed. The individual members of government must also be made accountable personally for the casual way they solve every problem in society with taxation and more restrictions. The end result of each new scheme perpetrated by governments on citizens must be analyzed, and a system of accountability and recourse must be in place to handle the lawmakers' mistakes. Now the lawmakers can use any harebrained solution to justify their existence. Years later, when they can no longer be held responsible, the results of their meddling will finally come in. This is too late to do anything about their tragic mistakes. We need to bring back the concept of public servant, not the current concept of "public dictator" that now exists in every country to one degree or another.

WHAT ROLE WILL POLITICS PLAY IN SPACE?

The farther people are from their seat of government, the less they pay attention to the nonsense of state control. Common sense and positive capitalism naturally become the way of life. Sometimes voluntary socialism also arises. Provided force is not the motivating factor used to choose an economic system, there should be very little conflict. Both systems can build a better life for everyone if government force is removed as much as possible from daily life.

Religious power should be reduced in space because it has a proven history of causing conflict. Mysticism has always needed someone to point out as the enemy, that is, someone less than human. Private religious thought should neither be encouraged nor discouraged by the political powers of the state. Perhaps when the brain is better understood, irrational hate will be nothing more than a chemical imbalance in the nervous system. Irrational hate will then become a treatable mental illness. If not, then mass communications without political or religious manipulation will be able to stop the influence of mysticism.

Space will allow people the option of escaping from religious and political insanity. This very option could make it almost impossible for a perverted leader to abuse a power system. The Starlife Project will be completely free from political loyalties. Each Starlife community should have its own identity. Distance from their communities, combined with the ability to communicate as if they were next door neighbors, will allow the human spirit a freedom and joy never before experienced by so many people.

INTERNATIONAL PROBLEMS

What are the duties of The International Capitalist Party in the international community?

How can nationalism be brought under control?

Is the United Nations a solution for conflict?

How can drug commerce be halted?

Is free trade a possibility?

How can Apartheid be solved peacefully?

How can communist countries be converted to positive capitalism?

Will the politics of hunger be solved?

What type of national defenses should countries deploy?

Can anything positive come out of the international arms race?

How can worldwide racial integration be brought about?

Should space be conquered internationally?

How can dictators and fanatical religious leaders be converted to positive capitalism?

Is a worldwide refugee program possible?

Where should The International Capitalist Party purchase land to develop a model society?

WHAT ARE THE DUTIES OF THE INTERNATIONAL CAPITALIST PARTY IN THE INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY?

The primary duty of The International Capitalist Party is to give the capitalist economic system political power. Capitalism has been with humanity since the beginning of time, but has never been given credit for its natural perfection. Leaders of every type of government have chosen to diminish or destroy capitalism within their society. Capitalism is the only system that does not need government to exist. This fact does not appeal to leaders seeking power for its own sake.

The party's appeal will be to the individual within the various existing political groups. If the individual is seeking freedom and fairness in society, capitalism will be the ultimate answer. Bringing the message of economic enlightenment will be the party's duty.

Problem solving using the capitalist method will be another duty that the party will owe the international community. The party's solutions will be to use a minimum of participation by governments and maximum effort by individual entrepreneurs.

Another important duty will be to make sure that capitalism remains an evolutionary tool and not an excuse for political revolution. Political revolution always translates into violence and death. The system that follows is always concerned first with power and government instead of freedom for the individual citizen. From feudal lords to communism, the game is the same; just the name of the system changes. This is a pitfall into which capitalism must not fall.

HOW CAN NATIONALISM BE BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL?

The world economy will soon be so closely knit by technology that even language differences will become obsolete. Education in every part of the world will leave the world's population with the realization that nothing matters in determining the worth of a person except for individual effort and ability. The opening of the space frontier will leave the concept of boundaries as nothing more than a legal description for real estate. This sort of natural evolution need only be understood to be a solution. Nationalism is nothing more than an idea. Nationalism is a good idea to give a sense of team spirit. When friendly competition is replaced by hatred of any kind, nationalism becomes a negative social force. This negative force should be scorned by the world community wherever it is found. Fortunately, educated people of the future will be the natural answer to this problem.

The International Capitalist Party will help this process merely by being in existence. All of the party's programs, policies, and goals will enhance the natural evolutionary process.

IS THE UNITED NATIONS A SOLUTION FOR CONFLICTS?

Any world organization is a step in the right direction, but the United Nations does not have a reputation for solving very many conflicts. This is mostly because of the Security Council. The council's veto power stops any rational action against aggression. When criminals have the ability to stop enforcement by simply voting against it, there can never be a solution for conflicts. The rules have to be changed before the United Nations will ever be effective.

The International Capitalist Party would be useful as an international political party with a clear economic message. We are not an American political party. Because of this fact, Third World and other types of resentment will be absent. We can actually put pressure on the American culture to relieve itself of negative capitalism. With America as a better example of positive capitalism and freedom from government, the hypocritical image America now has would disappear.

The International Capitalist Party can then go into foreign countries separated from ties to the CIA, unstained by American imperialism, and unclouded negative capitalism. Freedom would have a second chance to be heard worldwide with a clear political and economic view. The party has the potential of unmasking every petty commissar or dictator in the world. Their motives and their programs would be bankrupt with the proper message of truth given to the citizens of each country. Their use of force for revolutions shows the impotence of their ideas.

HOW CAN DRUG COMMERCE BE HALTED?

The illegal drug business is the Achilles heel of America. Drug dealers use normal business practices and advanced technology to promote the sale of human poison. America's enemies can be the suppliers from almost any part of the world. We are trained within the capitalist system, and suppliers know we like to make money. We are proud of this fact, because money creates individual freedom. Individual freedom is the main reason for accumulating wealth. Our enemies can pervert this idea by making popular substances that are highly addictive and very destructive. This is a subtle form of chemical warfare. Plus, our enemies can move their drug business anywhere, hoping we will add another problem by attacking those countries that the drug dealers have moved into.

The abuses these substances cause in our society become a basis for propaganda. Enemies are always pointing out the decadence in America. This decadence is nothing more than negative capitalism.

Unless Americans want to play into this trap, we have only one choice. The only answer is to take the profit out of the business by partially legalizing the drugs. They not be legalized like two other major human poisons, alcohol and tobacco. They must be legalized like rat poison. They must be properly labeled with skull and bones and extremely strong addiction warnings. Suicide centers should be built for drug addicts. These centers will help take the glamour out of substance abuse. The centers will also help the addict hit the bottom and hopefully bounce back in a controlled environment.

The black eye of capitalism will heal as soon as the profit and glamour is taken out of the drug trade. Several other solutions are presented in other sections of this book in more detail.

The opponents to partial legalization rightfully point to the legalization of alcohol and tobacco have affected society. They also will point to Northern Europe's experience with problems created by drugs after they were made legal. It is very obvious that just making drugs legal does not solve the problem. In fact, it creates more health problems. But it does solve criminal problems if the drugs are cheap enough.

Another important point should be made here. It is very tempting to sell this program to the government by suggesting a high tax to discourage use and raise moneys for other programs. However, government should not benefit from human misery the way it does with alcohol and tobacco. There must be no collusion with suppliers to the detriment of society. Poison should be so cheap that any idiot can get as much as he or she wants.

The only other choice is to turn this country into a police state and abandon more of our personal freedoms.

IS FREE TRADE A POSSIBILITY?

Free trade is a capitalist idea. Any time a government tries to impose any other economic system, free trade breaks down. Currently, free trade is suffering because governments are subsidizing whole industries. They operate these industries at a loss, trying to drive the free competition out of business. They are trying to say this form of competition is fair. The only thing they will succeed in doing is creating a tariff war. They will lose twice. Once when taxpayers subsidize the industry and a second time when the tariffs make cheating ineffective.

Free trade is positive capitalism, whether it is done by two individuals or two governments. The International Capitalist Party can only promote this ideal at every opportunity. The system requires voluntary participation; therefore, any society with a repressive economy cannot participate fairly. A tariff retaliation against its cheating will be the only cure.

A tariff should never be used against other free traders just because they are doing a better job. This type of protectionism is actually an act of war. Protectionism would be considered very bad sportsmanship if done at the Olympics. Protectionism is like letting one country start in a foot race before the rest of the teams get the go signal. Fairness is the key to international free trade. If the sportsmanship and fairness of our international games could be brought to the marketplace, we would have worldwide free trade and greater prosperity for everyone.

HOW CAN APARTHEID BE SOLVED PEACEFULLY?

Apartheid is fueled by fear and unreasonable expectations on both sides. The whites fear the loss of a viable economy with the intrusion of communism or socialism. The so-called redistribution of wealth is just an excuse to take property from the owners. The blacks, who fear they will not get full citizenship rights, are falling into the opportunistic hands of the revolutionaries.

The only way apartheid can be solved peacefully is for both sides to make a commitment to the capitalist economic system. Freedom and equal opportunity will replace fear and repression. This is actually a great opportunity for capitalist to set an example of peaceful transition.

Apartheid is a classic example of why the West is losing the international struggle. We are trying to sell democracy, which is just a way to elect leaders. Communists and socialists are selling a total political and economic program. Even when democracy wins, they still can get a communist or socialist elected. It is no wonder that the whites are afraid, given the example of government transitions worldwide.

South Africans need to pass a constitution that ends apartheid concurrent with adopting the capitalistic economic system. Such a system will allow the country to have as many black leaders as its citizens want without jeopardizing the life and property of the whites. Everyone will find this a happy evolutionary transition. The other choice is short term confiscation, which will cost lives and destroy a very healthy economy.

HOW CAN COMMUNIST COUNTRIES BE CONVERTED TO POSITIVE CAPITALISM?

The economic success and impregnable defense system of free countries will set the stage for this conversion. Agreements with communist dictators are fairly useless. The communists are like religious fanatics; they think their antiquated system of forced adherence to an economic system is natural and correct. Getting the elements of force and repression out of communism or socialism is the only hope for its long term existence anywhere. The present leaders are so unsure of themselves that any contact with the West causes major paranoia. During the evolutionary process, if the leaders of the communist countries will allow their citizens freedom of movement, their positions as leaders will be strengthened. We do not need to destroy other types of government to have a successful evolution. If groups of people choose to live under the yoke of communism or socialism, provided they have the ability to leave that society at will, positive capitalism can live alongside their systems without conflict.

The evolutionary process will have to become more aggressive if freedom of choice is not forthcoming in communist and socialist countries. Methods of capitalist intrusion must be developed to help people understand the capitalist message. The repression of the communist yoke can only be broken by the will of the people. Communism can stand or fall on its own merit. The freedom of individuals trapped under communist repression is the major concern of The International Capitalist Party. Unless you believe humans should be treated as robots by the state, you will understand this principle.

WILL THE POLITICS OF HUNGER BE SOLVED?

Technology has assured the world that hunger is a thing of the past. Only government intervention and government control of the methods of production and distribution can cause famine. The spotlight should be placed on the leaders of these countries. The world community must pressure these individual leaders into changing their methods. A leader's life is not worth any more than a peasant's especially when the leader is misusing power for negative purposes. The capitalist free market system can guarantee food for all. A natural or man-made holocaust is the only way this system can be temporarily disrupted.

Anywhere there is hunger; The International Capitalist Party will try to put pressure on the government that caused it. Any country with massive hunger should either replace its government or release the means of production to the people and replace their closed economic system with a free market. Famine takes away any legitimate claim to power a government has over people. Famine means a complete breakdown of the government's ability to govern properly. The International Capitalist Party will leave the charity aspect of famine to the organizations already formed for this purpose. The party will, instead, concentrate on solving the long term problem of economic evolution.

WHAT TYPE OF NATIONAL DEFENSES SHOULD COUNTRIES DEPLOY?

THE BEST! Humanity will crawl forward until freedom of choice is installed in every corner of the world. After that happens, the pure waste of military might can be turned in a positive direction. Capitalist countries that have to defend against a slave economy have to use coercive communist methods to fight back. The most obvious method is using the income tax to raise money for the military establishment. The income tax is the worst manifestation of communism in a capitalist society. It causes government intrusion into every aspect of an individual's life. Unfortunately, no viable alternative has been forthcoming to help the defense effort until now.

The International Capitalist Party will concentrate on the politics of economic evolution. Evolution is the key word here. The income tax, if repealed in America as a constitutional amendment, would disrupt the balance of military and guarantee success to communist countries. The problem will be replacing the communist income tax system with a less intrusive method of raising money for the military. There are two possible scenarios that can accomplish this goal.

The first scenario, which almost guarantees results, is a political extension of President Reagan's Star Wars program. The difference is The International Capitalist Party position is that it separates the two systems monetarily.

Star Wars is supported by the income tax. Star Wars is a defense against communism. Income tax is pure communism; therefore, communism is fighting communism. If the income tax was used only for defense purposes, which is the reason or excuse for its existence, we will in a short while bankrupt the communist nations, with their own system working against them. (1976)

However, we are using communism (the income tax) within our system for other reasons. The two main items that should not be paid with income tax moneys are transfer payments and interest on nonmilitary debt. The first way to develop a national defense without peer would be to go directly back to the original intent of the income tax and call it a defense tax.

The second scenario incorporates the first scenario but allows for a transition, with alternate solutions to the problems created by transfer payments and interest on national debt.

The transfer payment problems can start to be solved by asking not what your country can do for you but what you can do for yourself. The corollary of this concept is the fact that the more you do for yourself the less you will need your country, and you will free the slaves of taxation.

The national debt should be paid once and for all with a federal land auction. After enough money is raised to pay the national debt, Congress should pass laws prohibiting borrowing by the federal government using income tax as the method of repayment except in emergency situations clearly spelled out by law. Certain large blocks of land could be sold to some of the wealthier countries that have everything except room for their people. They could start large ethnic communities that would increase the tax base, pay off the national debt and serve as a tourist attraction. These areas should be in what are now basically rural areas. The land values will be based on a completed community plan, not raw land values. This will give the taxpayer maximum leverage. A fast track solution should be implemented because land planning is the biggest waste of time by bureaucrats in real estate. The land could very easily be some of the deserted valleys in the West. It would probably be best to start with a German community, given the racial stupidity of some elements in the American culture.

CAN ANYTHING POSITIVE COME OUT OF THE INTERNATIONAL ARMS RACE?

Technology is the only by-product of a war machine that can be considered positive. Waste is the main ingredient of war technology. The only way we can turn this waste into something would be to convert a wartime technology into something useful. The atomic warheads could be converted into a power source for space travel. Laser technology is already convertible. Germ and chemical warfare does not seem to have a convertible factor, but perhaps one can be developed. The defense system and its convertibility should become joint projects more often. The space shuttle and interstate highway systems are two great examples of this principle. Defense budgets should be more concerned with this combination to get better public support. The Humanarium project could easily, in its early stages, become a convertible defense system. By selling the positive aspects of the Humanarium project, controlled by civilians for defense of the general population, a Star Life scenario could be developed.

HOW CAN WORLDWIDE RACIAL INTEGRATION BE BROUGHT ABOUT?

America is the melting pot of the world. By maintaining this attitude and improving on the incidences of racial discrimination, the example set by America will be proof positive that everyone can live together peacefully.

Once again, technology will speed up this process with advances in communication and travel. A common computer language and instant translations by lightweight communicating devices should finish the transition of understanding between cultures.

The capitalist political and economic system can make the exchange of goods, services, and ideas a mutually advantageous transaction for every race and culture. The International Capitalist Party will keep racial, religious, and cultural bias out of capitalism. A person need only be fair, honest, and hard working to succeed with positive capitalism.

Integration will be a given factor at the very beginning of the evolution of capitalism. When the process of evolution is completed, integration will have occurred world wide. The very existence of capitalism as a political force will guarantee a solution to this problem.

SHOULD SPACE BE CONQUERED INTERNATIONALLY?

Space will be the ultimate in free competition. The last time the world had a new frontier, the English empire exploded, seeking new markets. The Industrial Revolution was born, and human suffering was dealt a major blow. Space will demand political freedom for anyone venturing into its vastness. The politics of force and control, which are so much against human nature, will be dissipated with the new frontier. Space will be a "first come, first served" society. This will happen no matter what ridiculous rules governments agree upon. Capitalism will rule because it is the natural way for humans to deal with one another fairly. The International Capitalist Party will develop projects to assure that this process has a good start. Even if the party does not succeed in the short run, positive capitalism will inevitably be the economic choice of the future in space. The people of the world will lose every reason for cooperation with governments' restrictive rules with such a large frontier to conquer. The goal and the possibilities of space are so massive that the self-conscious negative behavior of governments will have little to offer citizens.

Each new world will have a new beginning and an opportunity to live a life of freedom and happiness. This should be an international goal but one free of international government interference. This does not mean international governments should not participate in the development. They should only realize that their power will dissipate in direct proportion to the success of space exploration. A positive government will not mind this assessment. Instead, an enlightened government will take it as a tribute to freedom.

HOW CAN DICTATORS AND FANATICAL RELIGIOUS LEADERS BE CONVERTED TO POSITIVE CAPITALISM?

Leaders who use physical or mental force are the last individuals to be converted to anything positive. If their leadership qualities have any use, perhaps a conversion would be possible. The only method of conversion that could possibly work would be one that clearly benefits the leaders. Capitalism can show these leaders, through examples of success in other countries that have adopted positive capitalism, a way they and their citizens can prosper.

Conversion probably will not happen. Given this fact, the citizens of these countries seemingly face a long period of hardship. Evolution from the grass roots of these societies, based on a clear understanding of freedom of the individual, will come. The free countries can only set an example and apply economic and social pressure for positive change.

The other possibility is the worst solution but also the most likely. These leaders believe in force, and they will respond to force and respect it. Retaliation against their aggression should be swift and hard. The force of retaliation should be against the leaders of these countries, with minimum damage done to the general populace. This should be the policy against terrorists of any political or religious persuasion.

IS A WORLDWIDE REFUGEE PROGRAM POSSIBLE?

The refugee program would be a good opportunity to use the Humanarium project in areas not normally populated. These refugees are generally not wanted because of the economic pressures they place on the host government. Conversely, it will be difficult to get people to move into previously hostile climates for the Humanarium project. A trade off between the needs of refugees and the Humanarium project could provide a useful solution for everyone involved. Refugees have historically become the pioneers of any new society. Once again they have a chance to participate in the progress of humanity while saving themselves. The Humanarium project is probably the most important movement of its time for the future of humanity. The first stage could easily be pioneered with refugees. This stage of the Humanarium project would be a method to solve the earth's population growth problem. The next stage would be the exploration and colonization of space. The International Capitalist Party has a vested interest in helping this evolutionary change in human development. Encouragement, money, and political power will be needed to pursue this positive goal of human survival. The party will add the element of private enterprise as the major contributor to this process. By following this path, it will guarantee that freedom and opportunity will be available to the refugees. Integrated into the Humanarium program will be a cultural retraining computer program to help the refugees adjust to a new culture and environment. This solution would solve a lot of problems in a natural and positive way.

WHERE SHOULD THE INTERNATIONAL CAPITALIST PARTY PURCHASE LAND TO DEVELOP A MODEL SOCIETY?

Land will be needed for the Humanarium project. Most of it will be in very isolated areas to test the survivability of the Humanarium. The costs should be minimal, and in some cases there will be no cost whatsoever. In the beginning, Humanarium colonies will be small and will have very little contact with the outside world. Capitalism in communities this small will be a moot point, yet each person will be fully trained in the principles and concepts of positive capitalism. Training of this type will assure a motivated and free society within the Humanarium colonies. The first purchase will be in a desert area to test the solar and wind energy sources. The project will try to establish a recyclable agriculture economy. Water will have to be constantly reused in this controlled ecosystem.

Money I earn from real estate activities will be used to make this first purchase. But it is not very likely that I will be able to finance the entire Humanarium project; membership income will be required to complete it. Some people and organizations will want to see this project of faster. They can use our convertible grant membership program or the membership including the individual unit trust. The complete power triangle of the membership drive will be used to finance this project.

NATIONAL PROBLEMS

Can the prison system be improved?

Should we expunge all communism from American politics?

What is the opinion of The International Capitalist Party on life and death issues?

Are there political solutions to unemployment?

Can the problem of illegal immigration be solved?

Can we improve on the “BUM” situation in America?

Can the nation” growing traffic problems be solved without increasing the income tax?

HOW CAN THE INTERNATIONAL CAPITALIST PARTY FIT INTO AMERICA” POLITICAL LIFE?

The three main ways for The International Capitalist Party to fit into America” political life are as follows:

1. Promote positive capitalism as a foreign policy.

2. Provide a PAC-like pressure group or lobby to promote positive capitalism within government.

3. Compete with government in solving social and political problems using capitalistic principles.

The first way The International Capitalist Party can help shape existing policies is to send out a clear message about positive capitalism. Current American policy concentrates on democracy only. Capitalism assumes democracy at the very root. One on one business transactions, voluntarily entered into for the mutual benefit of both parties, require a system that is a democracy to function properly. Both parties vote or agree to do business. Both parties vote or agree to the terms and conditions of the transaction. Both parties are aware that they must both benefit from the transaction if they want to do business with each other again. This is democracy in action at the lowest level.

Democracy is not only how we choose the individuals who form the government, it is also how we chose the type of economic system that will prevail in the country. Our present policy is only concerned with democracy in choosing a leader. With positive capitalism as the economic system of choice, we will have a back-up system to ensure political freedom. The way foreign policy works now, we can create a democracy and end up with a dictator or a communist as head of state. This mockery of democracy happens all too often.

The International Capitalist Party will try to include a political and economic policy to combat this serious oversight by American policy makers.

Another advantage to this approach is the fact that we can proudly and openly promote a system instead of having to use covert, CIA-type activities. This approach will help clear up our Ugly American, “Yankee go home” image. This direct and honest approach to international politics can result in a new respect for American institutions.

The second way the party can help in national politics is to become like a political action committee (PAC). Some of the income earned from our capital basis can be used to help elect politicians with the best records for promoting positive capitalism. The party can also fill the gap sometimes created when there is no real choice. Periodically the Republicans and Democrats give the public the choice between two extremists from the same side. This is equivalent to no choice at all. An example would be when two extreme left-wing candidates go against each other. The International Capitalist Party could fill the gap by offering either of these other parties a chance to field a candidate who temporarily carries our political party" banner. We do not need to compete directly in American politics, but the party could serve as a safety valve against extremism on either side.

Should one part or both abandon positive capitalism as its economic system of choice, The International Capitalist Party should then move to actively recruit and elect leaders. This is not our goal, because there is no reason to change something that already works well. That does not mean we cannot help improve the American system, only that the party does not need to dominate the system politically. Our best use is in countries that need the capitalist message more than America does.

The third way the party can help includes the first two but refers to problem solving wherever there is a political or economic reason to find answers. The party will apply the methods and ideals of positive capitalism in formulating the answers to pressing questions. "he Book of Solutions" will be an ongoing project of the utmost importance to members. I will start the process, but I do not presume to have all the correct answers to the many problems that confront today" world and the world of the future. My effort will only be one among many. The difference will be a clear political and economic philosophy from which others can work. This system has been developed over the ages, and I can only hope to further it along the way briefly. Capitalism" real strength comes from the fact that it is the most natural and fair way for humans to deal with one another politically and economically. Life will be better when this fact is formally recognized by as many people as possible.

HOW CAN THE DRUG PROBLEM BE SOLVED?

Drug dealing is a black eye for capitalism. The drug dealers use the capitalist economic system but abuse the principles of a fair exchange for the mutual benefit of both parties. They also deal in an extremely negative product. Their product has mental force built into it. They are the worst problem, domestically, that the party has. America is at the same point that it was just prior to the repeal of Prohibition. The difference is that this time, instead of letting one dangerous substance into society, there is a list of dangerous human poisons. The drug using public uses the excuse that they should have freedom of choice when dealing with these substances. The problem with that argument is that freedom of choice is taken from them because of the addictive properties in all of these drugs. Some would argue further that this addiction is the addiction to pleasure. They may have got away with this argument years ago, but science has proven that disruption of the chemistry in the brain causes physical addiction. The present situation has force on both sides: The government uses force to keep you off drugs, and the drugs themselves use force to keep you on them. The only way to put free choice into the drug problem is to remove force from one side or the other. Government has declared a war on drugs. If they fight this one the way they did Vietnam, the drug dealers will win. This is the ultimate guerrilla war. The expense in life and limb will make America" Civil War seem like small potatoes. We have a contingency plan at the local level, provided the federal government decides to follow this path of destruction (see “Local Problems: San Diego, California”).

The solution to this problem is to legalize drugs on a limited basis. Make them available cheaply to take the profit out of the business. This policy will stop the crimes associated with drug trafficking. Limit distribution to poison centers where anyone who registers, for public safety reasons, can buy drugs. The drugs should also be labeled with the skull and bones symbol and with full explanations as to the physical and mental consequences of using these drugs. Labeling will create a small black market for drugs, but at least the warnings will be there to make a person think twice. Freedom of choice does not mean that a person will make the right choice.

The only other solution is massive government interference, but it is worse than the problem. It creates three types of criminals: Dope dealers, user/victims, and users who have to commit crimes to support their habit. This solution causes our legal system to break down at every level. The police spend a great amount of their time dealing with government created criminals. The courts cannot even get close to dealing with this problem, and there just is not enough jail space. The net result is less respect for the most important part of our government, the local police department; a great many people in our society see the police as the enemy. This system also makes the police look foolish. They do their job, which is very dangerous, and the criminals they catch are let out with just a warning because of the lack of jail space and the lack of funds to deal with the problem.

Government has a vested interest in perpetuating the drug problem because it gives leaders a moral issue, attorneys more clients, judges more cases, police more work, and social services many more victims. The problem is now beyond their ability to control, and they will have to break this vicious cycle one way or the other, with maximum force or freedom of choice. The choice is in government” hands. It will tend toward force, but that solution may backfire in the government” face.

HOW CAN WE IMPROVE EDUCATION?

The best way for The International Capitalist Party to improve education in America is to support the following:

- 1. Incentive pay for teachers. This program puts the money where the performance is. Consumers, in this case the children and their parents, evaluate the teacher, and the teacher” performance is rewarded accordingly.
- 2. The voucher system, which allows parents the choice of public or private schools without having to pay for both. When parents pay for private education, they relieve society of a large financial obligation, one that is much larger than what the parents would pay in taxes. Taxpayers without children would also benefit from this system because of lower taxes. Encouraging private schools is a fair program that benefits all parties.
- 3. More “how to make money” courses at all levels of education. Most such programs are available only through large seminars held at local hotels and convention centers. The purpose of education is to improve the human species. Money is the applause given to those people who contribute the most to improving the species, in most cases. We should not ignore or snub this fact in schools. Although there are glaring exceptions to this fact of life, most people are rewarded in proportion to their contribution to humanity in a free society.

In a society that is primarily a capitalist economy and practices positive capitalism, the reward for an individual's contribution is in proportion to the benefits to society, with very few exceptions. We need to emphasize the benefits of positive capitalism in our schools to protect students against the sham of abusive altruism.

WHAT CAN BE DONE TO REDUCE GOVERNMENT REGULATION AND TAXATION?

The primary goal of The International Capitalist Party politically is to reduce government intervention wherever appropriate. The elements of communism that are ingrained in any mixed economic society should be the first concern. The most vicious element of communism, and the first to be attacked, is the graduated income tax. For a society that values performance and effort, we have an inhumane and destructive attitude toward taxes. Any income tax should be structured to motivate high performance rather than punish it. This single attitude shows legislators' lack of knowledge about the very system that protects and assures their own personal freedom. They are victims of misplaced compassion and dupes of the organized resistance to capitalism and freedom.

The national income tax policy should reflect "donors" for those who pay high taxes. Tax freedom should mean that the top net cash paid to the government in income taxes is $50,000 per taxpayer; adjusted yearly for inflation. Then individuals can earn as much as they please and donate additional cash for honor credits on a voluntary basis. The income from the honors tax should be designated to that area of government that the "donor taxpayer" so designates. If not so designated by the taxpayer, the money should be designated by the President.

Even this type of income tax should be replaced by private enterprise solutions to problems that government has taken on as an excuse for the existence of an income tax. The only exception may be a defense tax for that purpose only. If the party can remove this most invasive of government intrusions and abuse, the rest of our freedoms will slowly erode because of government controls.

All anti-tax groups should join under one organizational umbrella and make a clear statement that cannot be ignored or abused by politicians. The program should include a complete phase out of personal income tax schemes.

The other major area of regulation that should be removed has nothing to do with communism but feeds its propaganda machine by providing another example of negative capitalism. This is government created monopoly.

CAN AMERICA'S ENVIRONMENTAL PROBLEMS BE SOLVED?

Pollution of the environment will generate many new businesses. Every business has at its core a problem solving mechanism. You might say that a business cannot exist unless it has a problem to solve. This fact is true. Try to think of a business that cannot be thought of in this way, except for one operating under negative capitalism.

People should gravitate naturally from businesses, such as farming and dentistry, that have become so successful in providing solutions as to render a massive number of practitioners obsolete. If this migration of effort continues naturally, the solutions will be forthcoming from the market economy.

Government enforcement of pollution laws should be directed toward the many departments and companies that do business either for or with the government. The heavy hand of government on the private sector will do, as always, more damage than good. If government wants to get into the act, let it set a good example and provide some tax relief for companies cleaning up their operations.

Science and business are the most compatible parts in positive capitalism. Together they walk the same path to the many solutions required in cleaning and balancing our environment. The party need only give them political encouragement and freedom to act in their own best interest. The solutions will fall from the tree of knowledge as needed by humankind. Political interference rather than encouragement is the only pitfall in this process.

The Humanarium project has many environmental solutions built into its plans. The many participants are tuned into current technologies that work and that are profitable.

CAN THE COURT SYSTEM BE CHANGED TO PROVIDE SWIFT JUSTICE?

The court system can be helped two ways by The International Capitalist Party. America has had over two hundred years of our personal freedoms being eroded through rules and regulations, which are the inventions of lawyers and legislators to increase their inventories. Many laws are just plain ridiculous but not overly harmful. These laws could be easily removed. The toughest laws to change are the ones that create monopolies, such as the American Bar Association itself. These monopolies are supposedly created ““or the good of the people, but “the people” are always the practitioners who are benefiting at the public” expense, the lawyers and the politicians themselves. The party will try to recruit sympathetic lawyers and lay people to help remove and refine laws that inhibit personal liberty and business freedom. Rule makers should be subject to periodic review because of the irresistible temptation to rationalize and abuse power. This abuse of power is a natural human tendency, “or the good of the people,” in this case the public, a body of law should be fonder that recognizes this tendency even in people with the best of intentions. The only thing that will ever destroy this negative tendency within the legal and legislative area is a positive, organized effort to offset this form of negative capitalism. The removal of the inventory of damaging laws will automatically reduce court congestion. This subject is as intricate as the law itself and can only be outlined here to show our basic positions.

The other method to provide swift justice is the movement currently going on to supply private courtrooms and settlement arrangements to relieve congestion. The International Capitalist Party will support these efforts and provide a forum to help decide crimes that may fall into the political arena, for example, monopoly or tariff laws.

CAN TRANSFER PAYMENTS BE RESTRUCTURED?

Transfer payments must be restructured if there is to be any evolutionary process at all in America.

Transfer payments represent government force and coercion against the best in society for the benefit of the worst. This fact alone breaks every natural evolutionary law imaginable and is pure communism, the antithesis of freedom. This is the most classic example of doing something “for the good of the people” at the expense of ninety percent of the population. If force is to be used, it should be used to motivate the ten percent who do not contribute to society. Workfare and retraining programs with real teeth in them, in case of obstinate failure by the participants, and a voluntary one on one program, can change the face of this problem. All those taking advantage of subsidy programs should be properly identified as welfare recipients. Anyone willingly dipping into the government” coffers should be placed into this category. This is a broad policy statement, but it shows the direction that positive capitalism will take in resolving any dispute concerning individual programs. No person has the right to another person” earnings or property if said earning and property are fairly and legally earned. The one on one voluntary program can solve many of the problems that cause and perpetuate the welfare society. This program will use existing knowledge of the behavior and activities of welfare recipients. A statistical formula concerning the portion of the national budget allocated for welfare divided by the number of taxpayers would give a cost per taxpayer of the welfare program. The taxpayer would be given an incentive to intervene with direct support and training for an individual welfare recipient. The people on welfare should have an incentive program that doesn’t punish them for working. An example would be, where for every three or four dollars earned by the welfare recipient, only one dollar of benefits are lost. This could be on a monthly or weekly basis. This policy would help wean the citizen off government dependency.

CAN THE PRISON SYSTEM BE IMPROVED?

The greatest single improvement for the prison system would be to keep single one-time abusers away from multiple abusers. Some convicts are in jail for a single crime or category of crimes, such as drug dealing or thievery. These convicts should be motivated to earn their way out of jail and, where possible, compensate the victims or contribute to a social program that off sets their negative social behavior. Long sentences should be given, with an alternate motivational plan to substantially reduce the time served on a performance basis. These volunteer prisoners should go into a private prison institution with profit as the motive. For a more detailed description of one type of alternative prison system, see the discussion of the drug question in “local Problems: San Diego, California,” following in this chapter.

More attention should be paid to the intermingling of social deviants. Sex offenders should be placed only with other sex offenders, thieves with thieves, murderers with murderers, and so on. Each of these social problems can be isolated, and then, if broken into smaller components, the large, so-called impossible job may become manageable. Each type of deviant social behavior can be studied from a scientific point of view. Each behavior type can be treated as a form of mental illness. The cures may even help the general public directly if such things as brain chemical disorders or other direct cause and effect linkages can be identified. We all have a dark side to our nature that could be improved upon. The extreme abusers can perhaps relieve some of these tendencies in society if scientists can treat prisoners as socially ill. This proposal does not mean removing all punishment. For some crimes, punishment may actually prove to be the cure. Now, recidivism rates show otherwise.

SHOULD WE EXPUNGE ALL COMMUNISM FROM AMERICAN POLITICS?

Nothing should be removed from American politics that is just opinion. The problem is one of removing impediments to freedom and justice, not removing particular political leanings. Communism could actually exist in America if done on a local, voluntary level so participants could freely move out of the system. The problem with world communism, as it is practiced, is its arrogant belief in the robot mentality and the use of force. America is already swamped with communist programs, but nobody will admit to being a card carrying communist. The reason for having so much communism is that a long stream of legislative salespersons has created bureaucracies in the name of compassion. The price of this misplaced compassion has been the state sanctioned slavery of every taxpayer.

The International Capitalist Party will have its hands full just identifying and trying to remove the obstacles to freedom and justice created by our benevolent elected and appointed parent substitutes (bureaucrats and politicians). Their resistance will always come in the form of ““or the good of the people”. Our job will be to expose this myth and show the public who these bureaucrats and politicians are really serving with these well meaning but bankrupt programs.

We can quote page, paragraph, and author of each of the rules of communism and link them directly to these absurd social programs. By merely exposing them in clear, simple English that anyone can understand, we will either remove an enemy within or become as one with our enemy. The latter will cause a loss of freedom and liberty that will make the Dark ages seem a bright time in history.

WHAT IS THE OPINION OF THE INTERNATIONAL CAPITALIST PARTY ON LIFE AND DEATH ISSUES?

This section is comprised of the three following issues:

1. CAPITAL PUNISHMENT. Capital punishment should be an option for very heinous crimes that need to be given every possibility of being stopped through punishment and example. The criminal has taken the life of another by choice and, in this case, has given up his or her own life in return. Only by showing extreme duress can the criminal expect any leniency by the courts. The problem with capital punishment is that we will never be able to prove whether it is a deterrence for murder. A carte blanche attitude toward either murder or capital punishment forgets the many reasons and motivations that go into the crime. Trying to match punishment with a particular crime will be a test of individual judgment by judges well into the future.

2. ABORTION. As for abortion, women” freedom of choice is the current and correct solution. When the Star life program has been developed further, the unwanted embryos can participate without any harm to the mother or society. Use of force without sufficient knowledge is nothing more than a dogmatic answer to a very personal situation.

3. MEDICAL EXTENSION OF LIFE. Once again, when it comes to the medical extension of life, the choice should lie with the individual or the individual” closest relatives. It should not be a mandate of force from the government. Discouraging the termination of life should be the policy, but when termination is chosen freely, the issue should be closed privately and without added harm or punishment by the government.

ARE THERE POLITICAL SOLUTIONS TO UNEMPLOYMENT?

If you are talking about one hundred percent employment of those willing to work rather than some arbitrary percentage of those able to work, the solution is a free market economy using positive capitalism. In our unemployment figures, we would include anyone involved with negative capitalism. These people may be technically employed but are actually contributing to the destruction of an economy and therefore would be considered a debit on any reasonable balance sheet. The employment of people to dig holes just to have the holes filled the next day is a ridiculous concept that shows a gross misunderstanding of the creation of wealth. People who promote jobs like this think money is just printed, not earned. This category of thinking includes a lot of government activities. Union and minimum wage laws contribute considerably to unemployment problems. License and certification laws also must be put on a very short leash; otherwise, these government created monopolies contribute to unemployment. Tariff and import laws solve short-term problems and create long term suffering in any industry that tries this method. The long-term suffering will come with the loss of international markets, causing unemployment. In all of the above situations, people are trying to get something for nothing or an undeserved profit. Employment will only be stable when people learn that labor is a commodity that goes at a market price set by willing buyers without force or coercion. Quality work will always earn more, and shoddy workmanship will always have trouble with free employment practices. There is no political solution for laziness or lack of ability except for self realization by the individual.

CAN THE PROBLEM OF ILLEGAL IMMIGRATION BE SOLVED?

Only by making this country into a less desirable place to live in can the immigration problem be totally solved. Some people will do anything to be free, and as long as this country is perceived to be free, they will persist. The expansion of positive capitalism will create economies in other parts of the world that will foster free citizens with little interest in immigration to a country just because it” call America. Freedom from government is the only reason people want to come to this country. If we can help them attain this ideal in their own country, they will naturally prefer their homeland. There is nothing inherently better about America except for its history of freedom from government intervention in the citizens private and business lives. Another way to stop illegal immigration would be to continue our current policy of increasing the size of government. This will make us so much like the Third World countries that those people will lose all motivation to leave their homelands.

Free trade agreements will go a long way to accomplish the above goals. Immigration could be a dead issue in the Americas by the turn of the century if trade agreements are properly structured by the participating countries.

CAN WE IMPROVE THE “BUM” SITUATION IN AMERICA?

At first glance, this seems like a rather heartless question. First one has to define terms. A “Bum” is a person who has chosen a negative lifestyle that is offensive to society. We are not talking about the homeless who are in an unfortunate position through very little fault of their own. The true bum mentality is earmarked by the individual” ability to manipulate compassionate systems and people for a quick fix way of life. This behavior is accompanied by a chemical abuse problem that is usually at the root of the antisocial behavior.

Human motivation is basically simple. People are motivated by either the carrot or the stick. The true bum isn’t interested in fame or fortune and has given up on success, frequently because of chemical abuse or in conjunction with other personal problems. Jail and poverty level living standards should be enough to motivate a person if the stick approach could be used to motivate a bum. It’s obvious, however that none of these approaches work. So what is the fate of these individuals? Quite simply, it’s an early death. They are really committed to social suicide. They are letting the natural elements of society kill them with little or no resistance. They are almost daring society to do something about their situation.

This party” solution is an attempt to take them up on this proposition while minimizing the cost to society. We will actually attempt to make a profit by starting a “Bum City” with a Humanarium construction project in the center. This city will be in the most remote part of the country that we can find. There won” be any road into or out of the area. Everything will be brought in by air. Because the Humanarium community is totally self-contained and independent from local political control, it” residents won” be able to feed on federal and state programs. Our approach is a basic survival program aimed at training the participants in the art of self-reliance. We will teach them survival techniques and keep them far away from harmful chemicals. They will then be trained in several basic skills that will produce a profit, from which they will pay the party for their training. Upon completion of the program, they will be returned society or be allowed to remain as an inhabitant of the Humanarium community.

The program will require the cooperation of the police and judges in identifying the chronic offenders within each city. The judges will then have to either sentence the individual or get a voluntary statement of participation by the offender. The truly needy should be directed to social service or charity programs unless they feel that a survival program would be helpful in training them for life situations. This will be kind of an adult Boy Scout and workfare program aimed at curing the problem and turning a small profit for everyone involved.

CAN THE NATION’S GROWING TRAFFIC PROBLEMS BE SOLVED WITHOUT INCREASING THE INCOME TAX?

To do so, just give private industry leasehold routes for the airspace, mineral rights, and excess land rights so it can build privately owned and maintained alternate transportation systems. The combination of automation in both the vehicles and the transportation systems will allow for cheaper and better transportation. Use bar code laser technology similar to pricing technology at the supermarket. Citizens who decide to use an alternate transportation system are issued a laser sticker that is applied to each vehicle, for billing purposes. This will eliminate tollbooths and traffic congestion. Overhead laser monitors can register mileage, and script or vouchers can be used for tax rebates for the users.

Those who still believe in something for nothing can continue to use federal and state roads and continue to pay for them by paying their regular taxes without a rebate.

The leasehold income that the private companies pay for the right to use the routes can be a source of additional moneys earned by the government and can be earmarked to replace tax income. This program would have the effect of lowering taxes and giving private industry a chance to give us the best possible transportation systems and the best price and a clear profit motive for innovation in the industry.

LOCAL PROBLEMS

SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA

The following are just a sample of existing problems and solutions, included more to demonstrate a format than to exemplify perfect solutions. Local problems are the most sensitive politically because of the many factors involved, including local customs and personalities.

What can be done about population growth in the area?

Is there a possible solution to the airport noise?

Can illegal immigration be turned into a positive situation?

How can the party tap the resources of the youth gangs and turn their activities in positive directions?

Can the local drug problem be solved?

Can Southeast San Diego be revitalized?

WHAT CAN BE DONE ABOUT POPULATION GROWTH IN THE AREA?

The San Diego area is a natural environment for people due to its mild climate and proximity to recreation of all types. Resistance to natural migration by using government force, which shows a disregard for other people, can be done on an individual basis but should not be forced on everyone. Many people invest in this area because of future growth. The government should not have the right to depreciate natural real estate values with oppressive policies. No bureaucrat or legislator can do a better job of developing property than the owner or developer following the free market system. If you don't believe this, all you have to do is go to a state planned country. A voluntarily planned portion of San Diego, with consent or reimbursement to individual landowners, can let government planners ply their trade. What should be required of these planners is a contractor's license, a degree in architecture, and their own capital invested in their grandiose plans for other people's property. The result would be the typical cost overruns, shoddy workmanship, and a mediocre, bland architectural style.

San Diego was a semiarid desert able to support but a handful of inhabitants with very few plants. Because of far sighted developers who were willing to risk everything, San Diego is now a Mecca of beauty and perfection. This beauty, purchased freely by homeowners, is now in danger of being denied to others by tying the hands of the very developers who created the beauty to begin with. A fair balance must be struck to prevent no-growth people from hoarding and controlling their neighbors' property.

The no growth attitude is particularly devastating to smaller contractors and developers, the backbone of American progress. The no growth policy causes a government created monopoly in construction, with only the very large contractors having any chance to build.

During a period of recession, one doesn't hear a word from the no growth advocates. With businesses moving out of the area because of government policies, we can see the real results of a no growth attitude in a community, no prosperity.

IS THERE A POSSIBLE SOLUTION TO AIRPORT NOISE?

San Diego's population is spread throughout the county with very little open space large enough for an international airport. The possible sites all have something wrong with them. This problem is almost impossible to solve without a very large stretch of the imagination. The following is a list of requirements for an airport of international stature:

1. Large enough area
2. Close to downtown and the convention center
3. Safe
4. Minimum flights over populated areas

We also have another controversy in San Diego about offshore drilling. The environmental problems seem to outweigh the huge financial benefits that could be derived from a healthy oil industry in San Diego. The current problems and requirements for offshore drilling are as follows:

1. Drilling rigs are eyesores that offend the esthetic tastes of most people and therefore building them in the middle of San Diego's natural beauty could have a negative economic impact.
2. Leaks and accidents could be harmful to sea life and shoreline.
3. Currently, oil costs relatively little but drilling costs a lot.

The answer to both environmental problems could be a combination of solutions. The government could motivate the oil companies to build a futuristic, privately owned, beautiful mini-city around an airport supported by disguised offshore drilling rigs meeting tough safety requirements. By making the total operation privately owned, with major tax breaks, this solution won't cost the government. The only problem will be for oil companies to find a way to make a profit. The benefits to consumers will be enormous if this plan can be implemented.

CAN ILLEGAL IMMIGRATION BE TURNED INTO A POSITIVE SITUATION?

People who come to this country illegally realize that the economy of their homeland doesn't allow freedom of opportunity. They become a problem here only because of the fear we have of being overrun with too many people seeking this economic freedom.

The immigrants don't come here because they love America or Americans. If their country didn't have oppressive economic laws, most would prefer to stay home.

The American government isn't in a position to interfere with other countries' laws except by setting an example of a free economy. The opposition to this freedom has a full body of political and economic theory that can be made to sound plausible. Communism or Marxism can be imported into any country. The system is independent of a foreign government. This gives them a propaganda edge.

The International Capitalist Party will attempt to fill this political gap. San Diego would make sense as a base for this attempt in the Latin American countries because of the relatively good relations between the people of San Diego and the Mexican people. One of the best ways to obtain motivated members for our party in some of the countries would be to gain access to illegal immigrants. These individuals are already active in trying to better themselves and their families. The natural direction for them would be to import a system that could change their homeland through evolutionary change.

The party will attempt to get cooperation from officials for a training class for all illegal aliens before they are returned across the border. If this isn't possible, the party will infiltrate illegal alien groups before they are caught.

The training will include a method of networking that should expand the party's membership significantly within a short time. The party will give illegal aliens a money-making method that will motivate them to accomplish this goal.

HOW CAN THE PARTY TAP THE RESOURCES OF YOUTH GANGS AND TURN THEIR ACTIVITIES IN POSITIVE DIRECTIONS?

The gang problem is a combination of several obvious situations in society: the drug problem, inadequate housing, and lack of jobs. Areas like Beverly Hills and La Jolla, California may have a large number of drug abusers, but the people living there don't have the other two problems. Gang mentality is based on so-called pride in local turf. This pride is twisted into a backward and negative type of rock and roll nihilism. To have pride in something and at the same time revulsion for the reality of the slum causes this mental confusion.

THE PROBLEMS' POSITIVE ASPECTS

Drugs Capitalist sales techniques used to distribute drugs

Run down neighborhood Pride in local turf

Lack of jobs Youthful energy, resourcefulness, flexibility and talent

The drug and housing part of this equation are treated separately following this section. Jobs will be the main concern in this section. If one takes the positive aspects out of the above problems, there is an obvious solution.

The first major solution that will overcome rock and roll nihilism is to take the glamour out of being a gang member. The media must get on this bandwagon with in depth stories of the misery perpetrated by these gangs and show a contrast of the gangs that stay together to accomplish positive things. Perhaps a movie showing the very big possibility of the adult non-gang members of the community banding together in an exaggerated extermination of gang members would show the ultimate and definite end to the gangs' continued violent existence.

The solution would lie within the gangs themselves. A plan developed with each individual gang would use its positive aspects within the neighborhood to give the members jobs, pride, and a purpose in revitalizing their own neighborhood. Money making techniques, as well as skills, must be developed. An actual corporation should be formed, using the gang's name and colors. Each member would own shares and earn bonuses given in shares for work well done. This method will keep alive the feeling that each gang member talks about, the feeling of belonging to a family.

This program obviously won't work if the drug problem persists, because chemical dependence causes intense irrational behavior in anyone using drugs. There can be no rational approach until drugs are considered dumb or cool by the members of gangs. This subject will be dealt with in the next section.

CAN THE LOCAL DRUG PROBLEM BE SOLVED?

The main problem in San Diego is the lack of jail space for drug dealers. The solution to this problem is turning negative capitalist into positive capitalist by using the following methods. Drug dealers abuse capitalist techniques. They use distribution, manufacturing, and sales techniques that would make them successful in most legitimate businesses. They choose to abuse their own talents. Their mentality is very similar to the Nazis. They rationalize their participation in the marketing process by saying their victims would just purchase drugs from someone else if they didn't supply them.

The only semi legitimate argument the dealers have for pushing drugs is that other negative capitalists manage to get their products, cigarettes and alcohol made legal and popular. These commodities were legalized before the scientific evidence was in place to prove how dangerous they really are. What the world needs is less negative capitalism, not more. The dealers' argument is like Nazis saying that, because they've already gassed three million Jews, we can use that as an argument to kill the rest of the Jewish population.

Drug dealers also are like Nazis in that they not only poison people but torture them first. The fact that most of them also use drugs only shows how insidious the system of drug dealing is. This factor should be taken into account when grading the different types of drug dealers:

- A. Nonuser, manufacturer and wholesaler
- B. Nonuser, retailer
- C. User, small-time manufacturer and wholesaler
- D. User, retailer with assets
- E. User, retailer to support habit

Each of these dealer types should be treated separately. The more severe treatment should be meted out to those at the top of the list. Most of the laws already conform to this list. The program that follows will also conform to this pattern. Drug dealers are salespeople going in the wrong direction. By redirecting their efforts into our maxi-level membership program, the dealers will pay for their own keep and help pay for their victims' treatment.

The beginning of this process will be a membership drive, with the proceeds going to the construction of a private jail. The members will be given a unit, in the form of a variable net income trust deed, per one hundred dollars collected. The income will be derived from a membership program with the prison.

The cost of building a prison of this type will be approximately one hundred dollars per square foot, including the land. The average square footage per dealer, including the inside common areas, would be five hundred square feet. The amount of living area per dealer would be proportionate to the dealer's success with maximum-level membership drive. This is an initial outlay of approximately fifty thousand dollars per prisoner. This outlay includes many security devices and a sophisticated telecommunications network within the prison. The initial outlay also includes a private kitchen and bath. Each unit could best be described as a studio apartment.

The telecommunications network will be the way that the inmates will market memberships. The phone system will be programmed with number that the dealer will call. The inmates will have no choice with the dialing system, to prevent abuses. Follow-up and recalls will also be monitored with a computerized security system.

To the initial fifty thousand dollar cost per unit must be added the cost of food, medicine, and security officers. A business run by the inmates that shows a profit would be the ultimate goal. This profit can then be split between drug rehabilitation programs and owner/member of the institution.

Judges will have to decide on their own personal formula for each individual. The program will conform to each sentence.

Just in case you have any doubt as to whether the government has anything to do with the encouragement of drug use in this city and many others, ponder this situation; Every drug offender that is released on parole is given scheduled urine drug tests. Every felon knows that all you have to do is stay clean several days before the test and then they can resume using. They also keep a spare dosage of someone else's urine around in case of a surprise visit. Now, you either have to draw one of two different conclusions, either the government is encouraging drug use or the parole officers are some of the dumbest people in the world. You decide who is guilty!

CAN SOUTHEAST SAN DIEGO BE REVITALIZED?

Southeast San Diego is located in an area that should be very valuable residential property. There is only one equitable and relatively fast way to encourage a new look for the area. Because of new apartment projects in the area, a residential single family home designation won't work. The other choice is a high-rise area that will attract developers because of the low cost per unit of land. This area would be extremely good for high-rise development because of the natural ocean and city views. The change should be accompanied with a complete explanation of the increases in value so the homeowners are prepared rather than abused by the change. Advance financial planning for these owners should be part of the package to assure a fair market price for their property. There should also be a ceiling price to prevent obstruction by owners. A correct and just balance has to be struck because of the nature of existing government control over the property. If this isn't done properly, people with political pull will take "advance knowledge" advantage of these owners. Advance knowledge by owners also creates a false value in the minds of the owners and will discourage development. The biggest political problem will come from renters in the area. They will represent a block of voters trying to keep the area distressed, using misplaced compassion as their tool. Two things can be done to defeat this political problem. The first is a "renters moving committee" that concentrates on the relocation problems of tenants. Developers of low cost housing should be the leaders of this group so it provides concrete answers rather than just being a complaint committee. These experts can turn a very negative situation into a positive experience for everyone will to put forth effort rather than just complain. The other solution will be to get active support from voters outside the depressed area. These votes can offset the negative vote from the renters, but they shouldn't cause an impossible situation for the renters. This political power should coordinate with the renters movement committee to assure a compassionate change. The above solution sounds like more government intervention. This is because of the existing controls. If normal transition took place in the market, it would be very similar in nature to this solution. The biggest variable would be the actual prices paid by the developers. Without a master plan for the entire area, individual developers would be taking more of a gamble and would demand lower land costs to offset the uncertainty of conforming projects. In the later stages of development, land prices would be higher for the holdout owners. A balance of values will have to be struck between the owners and the developers because of the intense government control already in place in the area.

LOCAL PROBLEMS

HOUSTON, TEXAS

Can more population growth be stimulated in this area?

Can the petrochemical industry be expanded?

Should The International Capitalist Party invest in this area?

CAN MORE POPULATION GROWTH BE STIMULATED IN THIS AREA?

Houston is the only large city that allows and encourages development with very minimal government interference. This political position has always been the key to Houston's success and should continue to be so. Perhaps a direct advertising campaign that emphasizes this heroic freedom in the face of massive federal constriction of rights could get the message across. Creative freedom in business is at a premium in many areas of the country. Sometimes the problem is a direct government measure, such as a no-growth initiative. Creative developers become enemies to society, and many times their personal initiative dies with the dream. The advertising mentioned above should give special attention to these backward areas to reach some of these special people. Another area of expansion would be a worldwide search for creative business people with an emphasis on free positive capitalism as their personal policy. This should attract new ideas into the area. The International Capitalist Party will attempt to purchase an empty or near empty office building and develop percentage leases for new entrepreneurs. The party will headquarter its entire operation in one of these buildings.

One of the Humanarium projects can be constructed in Houston, with encouragement from government rather than resistance. This site should be very commercially oriented rather than pure experimentation like the desert Humanarium. The Houston Humanarium project should be constructed and owned with partners in the local petrochemical business. When this project is successful as an example of a self-contained community, the ideal of a minimally governed community can be situated anywhere without concerns about weather or location. Space will be the ultimate use for commercial, self-contained habitats. The Humanarium will be a center for the development of this idea.

Houston is also a natural place to bring in refugees from countries having political upheavals. A conversion program with a profit motive should be implemented aggressively to encourage migration into the area. These people can be trained and housed in Humanarium type structures without assistance from government agencies. This will help stop the political resistance from blocking immigration into this country.

Houston has been pointed out as one of the worst places to live because of environmental health concerns. This situation coupled with fact of minimal government force through regulations gives the local business community an opportunity to clean up their act without being coerced by government officials. The clean up of local water and air pollution or the control of these factors, could give Houston something new to boast about.

CAN THE PETROCHEMICAL INDUSTRY BE EXPANDED?

Oil is a limited resource. It can't be manufactured or grown. So why do we burn it? The long term results will be the equivalent of killing all the fish in the oceans. It doesn't make sense to abuse this natural asset. The question then is how to make this a market decision rather than a political decision. How can oil become as profitable as a building material as it now is as a fuel? A massive demand must be created for total environmental communities constructed with petrochemical products (Plastic). Once again, the Humanarium project with its integrated scientific systems provides a futuristic answer to this problem. Every part of a Humanarium should be recyclable as indefinitely as possible. Plastic provides the recyclable building and parts material necessary for the success of the Humanarium project. Wood, metal and cement products all have their uses but lack the total flexibility of plastic materials. This specialized use for the self contained recyclable Humanarium project will make domestic oil too precious to burn.

The message to consumers in America could become "build with domestic oil, and burn imported oil". This policy could be of use until a viable alternate energy system evolves. This change of policy could make marginal oil fields into self contained Humanarium communities. The well could be the center of the community, with a small refinery and computer controlled extruder completing the cycle of construction and perpetual renewal and growth.

These communities can be constructed in former barren areas wherever oil is present. The economies of these communities should also be self contained and independent of other communities as an experiment for space colonization. Later, a product line should be developed for trade as a backup system without jeopardizing the primary goal of an independent community.

SHOULD THE INTERNATIONAL CAPITALIST PARTY INVEST IN THIS AREA?

Houston will be the primary investment area for The International Capitalist Party at the beginning of its evolution. The reason is the community's political attitude and consistent policy of encouraging positive capitalism. In short, the party won't have to fight City Hall. Local politicians may not endorse our ideas, but at least they won't try to stop them. That assurance is enough to get the party off to a good start. To me, this attitude translates into friendly neighbors and a free political economy. Another major reason for the party's choice of Houston as a base is the petrochemical business that drives the economy of Houston. The party” goals are very compatible with this industry. Our commonalty of goals should lead to a remarkable political and economic relationship if properly developed.

The party” headquarters will be in Houston. Office space is over built in the area, and party should be able to solve some very serious economic problems for the owners of several of these office buildings. A confidential plan to solve some of these problems has already been developed. The party will implement the solution as soon as the time is right. At the present time, the party is checking each individual opportunity in the area.

The next type of investment will be a location that includes an oil well, to be developed as a Humanarium community. This location will be as close to Houston as possible for maximum exposure to our project. If our membership drive interests some professional oil people, we can then recruit their assistance and expertise for the Humanarium project. This assistance will be on a mutually beneficial basis consistent with ideals of positive capitalism.

CHAPTER EIGHT
1996 - THE 20TH ANNIVERSARY
WAITING FOR RESULTS
CHANGES AND REVISIONS
NEW TECHNOLOGIES
FUTURE MARKETING
THE TIME IS NOW
WAITING FOR RESULTS

The hardest part of this whole process for me has been just waiting to see if my writings have any validity. While my intuition and common sense told me twenty years ago that certain events were inevitable, if the world was to become a better place, my doubts were on an even scale. I wrote to clarify the issues in my own mind. I set out a plan that could be implemented at any time if it was needed. My confidence has now matured and I'm ready to proceed as planned.

What has the waiting produced? The most important thing to realize is that it has proven that positive capitalism has a life of its own. No matter what happens, most of what is discussed in this book will come to be with time and knowledge.

The biggest disappointment has been in the growth of negative capitalism. Its growth has been at about the same rate as the demise of communism. The growth of negative capitalism, mainly illegal drugs, has made it perfectly clear that the only way capitalism will survive as a recognized economic system, is if the proponents of the free market come to grips with this problem of problems. If they don't, they will have underestimated the tolerance of the general public.

As I write this paragraph the debate has almost been won by fascists. They want to infuse the system with force. This is an old Machiavellian plot to seize power and enslave the populace. The American government, through plan or mistake has let the drug and crime situation get out of hand. Many other developed and developing countries are experiencing the same problems. The only solution being put forth is force. The debate is muzzled when it comes to a real solution.

We now have over one million citizens in jail in America and the power structure is hoping to increase that number to four million by the turn of the century. This is the new growth industry in America. What it really is, is one form of negative capitalism feeding off another form of negative capitalism. Positive capitalism has a life of its own. No matter what happens, most of what is discussed in this book will come to be with time and knowledge.

The only solution being put forth is force. The debate is muzzled when it comes to a real solution.

We now have over one million citizens in jail in America and the power structure is hoping to increase that number to four million by the turn of the century. This is the new growth industry in America. What it really is, is one form of negative capitalism feeding off another form of negative capitalism.

While it can be conceded, there is a need for a general clean up process. Any clear thinking person should realize that having four million felons in prison will only delay the real problem that will follow. It's obvious that these four million disenfranchised and angry citizens will then be release back into society. They will be leaner and meaner. Are you sure this is the solution America?

The nutso's reading this would say; No! Lets keep them in jail or fry em! Are we going to let the Nazi mentality take over this country? I don't think so. This all sounds really crazy doesn't it. Well that's exactly what we are dealing with. The neuropharmacological truth is that these drugs are creating state sanctioned crazy people. Translated, that means that it has been proven that the chemicals that are being ingested by the addicts are not only addictive, but they are the same chemicals that the body produces naturally when a person goes psychotic. Have you ever heard the saying, "Confuse and then conquer"? That's what's happening right in front of your eyes. By hook or crook, the power triangle of politician, bureaucrats, and attorneys will be the primary beneficiaries of this scenario. They are also the ones screaming the loudest against the obvious solution. Why? It will put them out of work. Can you imagine them standing in the unemployment line. That would warm the cockles of my heart.

CHANGES AND REVISIONS

The biggest change will be on the emphasis placed on certain priorities of the party. Originally, it was thought that the main problem was world communism and its' spread. Now that communism has been shown for what it really is, with the fall of the Soviet empire, our work must be directed more towards the developed countries that still have communist features in their systems. The United States is a country that has a population that wants to rid itself of the giant bureaucracies, but the power triangle won't let go of its strangle hold on the economy. Our existence can only help end this tragedy. Technology is winning the battle by not allowing the tricksters any room to maneuver without the general public being aware of their schmanigans. Life might get back to where it was, in terms of renewed opportunities in America, in a short while. If this happens quickly enough, we won't see the demise of this great culture. Many prognosticators have told of the destruction of the American way of life, but it still can be saved. The biggest disappointment would be the fact that our Space program has come to a near halt. The reason is simple. The economy has been sucking up the capital that was going to be used for this purpose. We have a dysfunctional portion of our society that reflects the use of communist techniques for managing the economy. We need to revise this method of doing business. Fortunately, the political climate is good for making these changes. Perhaps in ten years, we'll look back and see that the evolution into positive capitalism will have taken another giant leap domestically. In the meantime, a great opportunity is open for private companies to innovate our way into space. The entrepreneurial talent of individuals should take on this challenge. The I.C.P. will help by developing the Star Life program. We will use a new form of financing that hasn't been done before. It will be a combination of the cash world and the barter exchange world. We will start a company by the name of "Digital Credit Exchange". The company will deal in network credits on a computer based on a dollar value. This is how the Barter Exchanges do it now between business owners. The difference here will be in the fact that the general public can participate. They will be issued digital credits for their membership fees. These digital credits can only be spend within the membership. This is the safest form of banking there is. The credits can't be stolen because even if someone hacks their way into the system, the credits aren't cash convertible and can be restore back to the rightful owner. The bank can't get into trouble by borrowing from the government and the owners of the bank can't run off with the money. What are they going to do, take the computers with them to South America? These digital credits will be used to finance many of the projects within the I.C.P. Cash will still be needed, at least for awhile. The whole monetary system will be revised or substantially changed by this new technology. Because there are so many built in safety features in this method of banking, maybe we can keep the power triangle from over regulating and controlling this system. That will mean more flexibility and innovation. Our vigilance will have to be strong in this area. If they can find one crook among us they will use that example to kill the industry. They don't like businesses that don't need to be controlled. It makes them seem useless. Maybe we can get them better jobs.

NEW TECHNOLOGIES

During the last twenty years the new technologies haven't seemed to be as important as the bringing down the cost of existing technologies. While there has been some definite refinement, the basic computer concepts and communication systems have mostly been aimed at bringing the everyday consumer into the market. This strategy has accelerated the possibility of mass marketing the I.C.P.

FUTURE MARKETING

The marketing of the I.C.P. memberships will be the top priority of the party. If we don't have a solid membership base our capital base will never become large enough to follow through with the objectives of the organization. At the end of this book there will be a recruitment manual that can be detached and duplicated by anyone interested in our program. The manual will be constantly updated to reflect the results of the membership drive. In general, we will use every marketing method that proves effective. The initial sales thrusts will be on the Internet to make the party broad based. Direct one on one recruitment will be done to center the system. The initial team chosen will be very crucial to the success of the venture. The first thousand members should be part of the system in the first year. This will be our simple goal. After that, we should try to double the organization every year. Because of the unknown effect that our marketing will have, these goals can be raised accordingly. This is a low end goal that should be reached no matter what else is accomplished by the party. The year will start on July 4, 1996 exactly twenty years for the inception and creation of the I.C.P.

From these two marketing methods, the capital to go into other areas of expansion will be possible. The initial earning will be plowed back into the following:

1. Newspaper and magazine ads
2. Direct mail
3. Radio and TV ads
4. Signs and billboards
5. Advertising specialties
6. Bumper stickers
7. Special events
8. Training schools
9. Telemarketing
10. Book sales
11. Video sales
12. CD and tape sales

The initial earning will come from the over-ride on the ten percent commission paid the sales force. The other ninety percent will go into real estate transactions to build the capital base of the organization. It's obvious that there will need to be a large number of people participating to make this plan effective. The participation levels are designed to vary with the individuals circumstances and interest in the process. This is why it is imperative that our first group includes as many committed members as possible. The more passive members will be needed in the long run, but aggressive entrepreneurs are top priority during the start up period.

Keeping the interest level high during an election year will be helpful. Most people will be tuned into politics in 1996 in America. A general platform of support for any candidate that encourages positive capitalism and discourages government growth will be designed as the candidates line up for their campaigns.

THE TIME IS NOW

Before July 4th, 1996, we will have secured a position on the internet that will allow us the access to an international market. As of this writing, the net is over subscribed and under used. We only need it for the core group in the beginning. Later, more sophisticated methods will be employed. (July 4th update: Everything we need is now in place with the WEB. The technology moved faster than we could have imagined.)

By the July 4th day, we will have one thousand copies of this book and the Training and Recruitment Manual printed. Each book will be coded and sold to serious new members during the first year. Hopefully, these members will be from all parts of the globe. Our means of communication will be mostly over the internet.

I'm preparing a disk that will accompany this book that will be upgraded to an interactive compact disc. I'm personally designing the software that will be used to keep track of everything. The computer programs will keep our members and anyone that wants to know about the I.C.P., well informed. The programs will be designed so that everyone will know where the assets of the I.C.P. are being used. The updates will be as current as the newest member joining. The program will be designed so that any member that has a computer, that is on the internet, can enter new members into the system for an instantaneous update of the entire system. The digital credits of the new member will be logged into the system but they won't be released until the actual cash is confirmed at designated locations in special escrow trust accounts.

The first year has the potential for setting a new path in the political arena. It may be the most important year. The preparations for the first thousand members is completed, but if we exceed this demand, we are going to need all the help we can get. When you read this section of the book, take note of the date and time. If you are one of the first thousand members, please make a special effort this year. It could make all the difference in the world. If you are reading this after that period of time, then you know that we survived the toughest year for the I.C.P.

If we move fast enough in the first year, our opponents will have a much harder time slowing down the evolution of positive capitalism. If they succeed in stopping the I.C.P., it will probably be in the first year. Our defenses are lower now than they will ever be because our capital base is at a minimum. If we manage to get financially secure quickly enough, the bureaucrats, attorneys and politicians that make up the negative power triangle can be fought successfully with our own power triangle. "THE TIME IS NOW!" Join the struggle and have some fun with our party.

July 4th, 1996 is the official start-up date for The International Capitalist Party. This gives us ten months from the writing of this chapter to set everything in motion. Some of the tasks that must be completed before the start-up date are as follows:

1. Lease a headquarters location using digital credits.
2. Get on the internet using digital credits.
3. Prepare all publications using digital credits.
4. Structure Power Triangle with a few key members.
5. Purchase digital computer equipment.

Let reason and ability rule politics and the market place, please JOIN The Internatiional Capitalist Party TODAY!
THANK YOU!

CHAPTER NINE
MEMBERSHIP
RESPONSIBILITIES
ORGANIZATION AND FLOW CHARTS
MEMBERSHIP APPLICATION
RESPONSIBILITIES

The International Capitalist Party has very clear responsibilities to its members and to the public in general. The main responsibility to members is to keep a consistent policy of positive capitalism. This means dealing at every level by exchanging goods, services, and ideas that are mutually beneficial to all parties. These transactions should be free of force or coercion.

My personal responsibility will be consistent with this ideal. Unfortunately, I will only be involved in start-up procedures and programs. Evolution probably won't allow me the time to see the incredible results that positive capitalism will make possible.

The party will also have the responsibility of continuing its programs until the desired results are reached. This will require monitoring by the trustees, and due diligence by the owner and member participants. The party's evolution will be proportionate to the effort and abilities of these individuals to perform.

Time will not be the major responsibility in the evolutionary process. Rushing natural processes always requires force, intimidation, and coercion. The timetable for evolutionary progress is not something to be forecast. We will set goals. These goals require total voluntary cooperation and cannot be accurately projected.

Every project mentioned in this book will become a major responsibility of the Party and active party members. New projects will be added as the situation warrants. A partial list of these responsibilities follows:

1. Membership drive
2. Official publications
3. Investment management of the capital base
4. Oversee educational program "How to make money with positive capitalism"
5. Monitoring, and help change intrusive government regulations
6. Starlife Program
7. Pinpoint, and help change negative capitalist activities
8. Promotion of The International Capitalist Party as a viable foreign policy option for America

10. Problem solving through “The Book of Solutions”

11. Encouragement of free trade among nations

12. Help in increasing high-tech communications

TEN STEP QUICKSTART GUIDE

Continue the natural evolution of capitalism.

The oldest and most natural economic system in the world is capitalism. It doesn't seem that anything that good could possibly need any protection, but the opposite is true. The reason capitalism is attacked from all sides is that it empowers individuals according to their abilities and effort. Every other system rewards force not freedom.

Attempt to enroll new members.

Our job will be to help in the process of the evolution of positive capitalism by training others. We will attempt to increase the membership in the party and you can be rewarded many ways if you participate in this noble endeavor.

An informed population cannot be easily led into bad political and economic decisions by any master manipulator.

Principles of positive capitalism.

The main principle of positive capitalism is a fair exchange of goods, services and ideas between two or more parties to a transactions. Others are part of the discussion.

Involve yourself in the political process.

You can't expect others to involve themselves in the political process if you don't walk your talk.

Teach others what you learn.

Who needs to say more? Digital Credits Mania has just started on the net. Learn the latest form of commerce. Digital purchases return cash in fifteen years? Talk about having your cake and eating it too! It's now possible.

Ask for help and support from other members.

The International Capitalist Party has begun to make its' mark on the internet with the addition of many new elements on site. Use the e-mail and chat sections to give support to other members with questions or concerns.

Learn to evaluate current and past political events.

Try to use this site as a guide if you want to have clear political and economic thought.
Inspire others with your actions.
Show empathy for your opposition, but don't compromise principles in the process.
Make sure you walk your talk.

UNDERSTANDING COMMUNIST CANCER

The public school system is the most important rule of communism. This is where the foundation of all future propaganda of distortion of the meaning and importance of freedom is laid. In a country with a strong history and understanding of freedom, this will take many generations to accomplish.

The single most important aspect of this rule is maintaining the mandatory educational monopoly over the society you wish to dominate. The second most important aspect of this rule is using the word social in its many forms to disguise real communist intentions until control can be taken from the individual by government. Each word and innuendo must be carefully directed into the perception of group conformity as the ultimate good. Even sports should be more important as a group.

The principles of democracy should be taught without the explanation of the tyranny of the majority as its underlying motive for communism. "Let them vote their freedoms away". While this is sarcastic, it is also true. Both the IRS and the public school system started in 1913 inspired by the works of Karl Marx and that is no joke. They've become monsters in a free society. Its time to stop them and their commucrat ways.

A couple simple adjustments can take the teeth out of their communist intentions. Allow public schools and private schools to compete by using the well researched voucher system to give choice back to the parents and children. Change the tax system to a consumer tax instead of an income tax. Quit punishing people for being good at providing superior goods and services. They should be commended, not punished. The numbers have already been crunched and only difference will be that we replace government force with choice. Break through the bonds of tyranny and become free again. Then we can concentrate on cutting back on government. The last American frontier. Freedom is destroyed by government power and power is money. The second most important rule of communism is confiscation of private property. This can be instituted in one of two ways. The most direct method is to use Fascist force at the barrel of a gun in the face of its recalcitrant citizens. This works best when citizens are not allowed to bear arms. The other way is more insidious and takes many generations to nibble away at a free thinking population. By using misplaced compassion to institute a graduated income tax to create class warfare, the government can turn citizens against each other. This also makes it harder for the country that is duped into this foolishness to grow financially. The higher the taxes on the most productive individuals and companies the greater the power of government to use other methods of private property confiscation. These methods use stealth and deception to accomplish their goals.

America, in the year 2008, is the victim of two sleazy misappropriations of assets. One from the wanna be World Government, commonly known as the United Nations and one from their own government. Both methods use fear through controlled mass media events to come to the rescue of the cowered population with false solutions. The first scenario is the total destruction of the planet. Carbon credits are the new form of taxation. The victims are those dirty capitalist that are polluting the world with their useless gadgets. Their activities must be punished by giving away their assets through the taxing method of carbon credits. I thought we had a Declaration of Independence to stop taxation without representation. Only the tyranny of the majority could be stupid enough to throw away their freedom in this haphazard scam to fleece America's assets. So far, we've resisted but the clear cut reasons haven't been registered. Instead the media complex is still trying to sell this concept using so called "Political Correctness".

The national financial crisis was contrived by the same sneaky commucrats that support every other government program that confiscates the public's money for any imaginable scheme they can come up with to fleece the American people. Create the problem and then rush in and solve the problem with more taxation and social engineering that these elitist pinheads know will give them power. These are the same PHD holding, ex CEO's that can't count. They made the rules to extend credit in foolish ways that even a second grader would understand. They do this in the name of social engineering. AKA communism. They'll try to convince you that an illegal immigrant laborer making a decent living of three to four thousand dollars per month can purchase an expensive new home with a tickler loan to qualify. What do they expect, that these hard working people will all of sudden become software executives and triple their income so they can make the payments on their adjustable loans when the obvious happens. Who is kidding whom? These same people are going to rush in and save us all. I don't think so! Throw the bums in jail from the top down. They've abused their power and deserve the same treatment as any thief would get. If nothing else, charge them with stupidity and don't let them get anywhere near a government or lending institution position. The other 81 trillion dollars in the tricksters schemes should burn to the ground and let the market adjust naturally. The tricksters and fools should lose money, not the prudent hardworking Americans. The only way this will happen is if real news comes back to the country, not the lies passed as information by the current media complex. Complicity can easily be proven in the courts and should be. This is a time for courage and leadership and not "go along platitudes" by commucrats. Call your local and national leaders and let them know you won't help with your tax dollars and your vote. You are going to help stop them every way possible. You can also donate to two programs we sponsor to help this growing problem. We need money to hire warrior attorneys that understand the gravity of this assault against freedom. We'll take the media to court every chance we can and we'll sponsor a "Bureaucrats Responsibility Act" that will make these fools accountable. Fighting back for your freedom is the only sane way to maintain it.
